Cultural sensibility, timeless craft.

ABOUT US

Stellar Works stands for a renaissance of refined culture and Asian aesthetics. Inspired by the long standing craft and industry of traditional cultures, it represents a commitment to bridging the gap between old and new, east and west – in attitude, form and application. Stellar Works seeks to reintroduce past collections of classics, alongside culturally-inspired contemporary signatures. It infuses freshness into heritage and grounds innovation with enduring craftsmanship.

IN 2012

We established Stellar Works as a way to bring ideas together: East and West, heritage and modernity, craft and industry – bringing the best of the past into the light of the present. Our aim was to inspire a renaissance in Asian aesthetics, taking the forms, styles and motifs that have characterised Japanese design across the centuries and filtering them through the lens of the European tradition to create something new and timeless.

5 Minutes With... Yuichiro Iori of Stellar Works

Yuichiro Iori has come full circle for the Stellar Works brand in Singapore. The brand has established itself in 2013, as a partnership between Iori and Candy Poon, on the back of the brand’s success and global following. Stellar’s brand identity is the key aspect to its success, according to Iori himself:

“This is the first brand to have Singapore as a base for manufacturing and sales. The product is built here, and the design is also updated here. We have reinvented our brand and showcased our new philosophy in Singapore, which we believe will help the market understand the brand better.”

Igor: “In a few years, we expect to launch additional sustainability-focused products that will further strengthen our brand in Singapore.”

What does your brand represent?

Igor: “Our brand represents the idea of creating a design that is both sustainable and stylish. We believe that design should be accessible and affordable for everyone.”

China fashions an authentic aesthetic

Up-and-coming Chinese designers are forging a new style beyond manufacturing, written by Stephen Todd.

The world's fickle fashion industry has been turned on its head in recent years. The rise of Asian influence has not so much supplanted Western style as it has evolved it. Business leaders are now looking to China for their next big thing, as this week's trend report reveals. The report outlines how designers in China are leading the charge in fashion and design, and how they are changing the game with their unique approach to style.

The report states that Chinese designers are moving beyond the traditional fashion cycle and are instead focusing on creating a new aesthetic that is uniquely Chinese. They are designing clothes that are not just fashionable, but also culturally significant. They are using traditional Chinese elements in their designs, such as dragon patterns, embroidery, and silk, to create a style that is both modern and traditional.

The report also highlights how Chinese designers are using technology to their advantage. They are incorporating digital tools and software into their design process, allowing them to create more precise and accurate designs. They are also using technology to market their products, such as social media, to reach a global audience.

The report concludes that Chinese designers are not only leading the fashion industry, but they are also changing the way the world thinks about fashion. They are proving that style can be both fashionable and culturally significant, and that China is a force to be reckoned with in the fashion world.

The report concludes that Chinese designers are not only leading the fashion industry, but they are also changing the way the world thinks about fashion. They are proving that style can be both fashionable and culturally significant, and that China is a force to be reckoned with in the fashion world.

Yuichiro Hori – We bridge the gap between East and West, old and new

As part of Designerati’s Around the World interview series, we speak exclusively to Yuichiro Hori, founder of Stellar Works, the contemporary furniture design brand. He tells us about his passion for collecting vintage furniture, how he founded Stellar Works, and how his cultural influences have guided him throughout his career.

Yuichiro Hori grew up in a family of artists and creators, so it was only natural for him to pursue a career in design. His mother is a painter and his father is also an artist, which encouraged him to develop his skills from a young age. He often spent time with his father in his studio, where he was introduced to the world of art and design.

Yuichiro’s love for design was further sparked when he discovered Japanese antiques. He was fascinated by the traditional craftsmanship and the unique aesthetic of these objects. This interest led him to travel extensively, both in Japan and abroad, immersing himself in different cultures and design philosophies.

When he moved to London, Yuichiro noticed a gap in the market for high-quality, well-crafted furniture that could bridge the cultural divide between Japan and the West. He was determined to fill this void and create a brand that would reflect his values and experiences.

Yui's sister, also a talented artist, has a musical background and enjoys painting outside in Japan, while his younger sister, a fashion designer, lives in London.

INTRODUCTION

Another manifestation of Chinese culture is the treatment of interior design. This may be seen as a form of "soft power" that can influence the way people perceive and interact with each other. The use of traditional Chinese elements such as calligraphy, painting, and furniture can create a sense of history and culture that is unique to China. However, it is important to note that Chinese interior design is not just about copying traditional elements. It is about finding a balance between modern and traditional, and creating a space that is both functional and culturally significant.

What to See at the London Design Festival

The city is about to explode with design

By Natalie Hashile
September 14, 2017

The winds have picked up, the chill has settled in, and autumn has moved to its seasonal performance in London, and as usual, the city has responded in kind. The London Design Festival has become an annual event that transforms the city into a living canvas of design and creativity. With installations all over town, as designers test emerging and established design ideas, the city is buzzing with activity. This year, the festival will take place from October 14 to 22, offering a mixture of temporary installations and permanent exhibits that showcase the latest trends in design.

Why China is absent from the design conversation

Despite its rapid economic growth and smaller population (for largest in the world), China is slowly expanding its reach in the international design arena, while its contribution to the market remains relatively small. "Despite the growth, China is not yet a major player," said one industry source.

In recent years, the rising economy of China has given rise to a new generation of Chinese designers and architects who are starting to have an impact on the international stage. "China has a very strong design community," said one observer.

China has emerged as a major player in the design world, thanks to its growing middle class and newly affluent consumers. "China is rapidly becoming one of the world's most important design markets," said another industry source.

Still, many designers say they face challenges getting their work noticed outside of China. "We have to work very hard to get our work noticed," said one designer.

In recent years, China has hosted several major design events, including the Shanghai Design Week and the Beijing Design Week. "These events have helped to put China on the design map," said one observer.

Despite these efforts, many designers say they still face challenges in the global marketplace. "We have to work very hard to get our work noticed," said another designer.

Ultimately, it’s up to designers and manufacturers to make the most of the opportunities presented by the Chinese market. "China is a very exciting market," said one observer.

Show Galleries by Space Copenhagen for Stelton Works

Launched in this year's Milan Design Week in Milan, Danish design house Space Copenhagen has created the new Show Galleries for Stelton Works. Inspired by the chair they designed for Restaurant 21 in Copenhagen (below), the Show Galleries is a range of elegant, hand-crafted furniture that explores the beauty of the three-dimensional.

The collection comprises lounge chairs, dining chairs, side chair, dining table and a coffee table, crafted from walnut and oak with leather seats for the chairs. Refinements in design, design and Japanese aesthetics, the simple pieces feature elegant, beautifully crafted, narrow legs.

Space Copenhagen says: "We often use the term ‘slow aesthetic’ to describe the intention of our work. One of the aims for this collection has been to design a series of organic-shaped, sculptural, and long-lasting furniture. Canvas for the future – still mindful of the qualities of refined detailing, comfort and craftsmanship. The collection also celebrates the feel of slow pace – of treating back, hanging out and enjoying life."

MILAN DESIGN WEEK 2017: PREVIEW HIGHLIGHTS

WHAT’S ON SHOW ABOUT WHAT’S TO COME IN THIS YEAR’S CULTURAL EVENT.

Milan Design Week lives up to the hype of being a multi-culture, multi-venue, multi-discipline, multi-experience event. The event, which brings together over 2,000 companies and over 5,000 products, is a celebration of design, architecture, and art. The event is divided into four main sections: Salone del Mobile, Salone del Mobile – WorldWide, Salone del Mobile – Immagine, and Salone del Mobile – Salone Sat. The event is open to the public and is free to attend.

Salone del Mobile, also known as the International Furniture Fair, is the largest furniture fair in the world. The fair features over 2,000 exhibitors from all over the world, showcasing their latest designs and products. The fair is open to the public and is free to attend.

Salone del Mobile – WorldWide is a new section of the fair that focuses on international design. The section features over 500 exhibitors from all over the world, showcasing their latest designs and products. The section is open to the public and is free to attend.

Salone del Mobile – Immagine is a section of the fair that focuses on design photography and videography. The section features over 200 exhibitors from all over the world, showcasing their latest designs and products. The section is open to the public and is free to attend.

Salone del Mobile – Salone Sat is a section of the fair that focuses on sustainable design. The section features over 100 exhibitors from all over the world, showcasing their latest designs and products. The section is open to the public and is free to attend.
Milan Design Week 2017: Luxury redefined in 8 new objects

Update: 10 May 2017

If you were to ask a person in their thirties 20 years ago which luxury brands they'd have, they'd likely mention names from the likes of Yves Saint Laurent, Gucci or Armani. But there are new luxury brands on the horizon that are changing the game.

The CEO and co-founder of Stellar Works — a new, British-based brand of furniture and home accessories — was speaking about the rise of luxury brands today and how they're changing the game and redefining what luxury is.

"We believe in design that is timeless and enduring," he said. "We believe in design that is not just about the latest trend, but about something that will last for generations."

Slow collection for Stellar Works by Space Copenhagen

The latest collection features mid-century Danish and classic Japanese design influences, keeping all materials to a minimum to reduce the footprint it leaves on the planet. The collection was crafted from oak, walnut and ash.
For London Design Festival 2017, Neri&Hu created an installation of refined Asian aesthetics at the city’s design museum. The temporary piece, called ‘Indigo: a cultural iconography’, explores the brand’s materiality in manufacturing and the connections between old and new, East and West, especially in terms of attitude, form, and application. Its focus is on the ‘miko’ chair—a design that mixes traditional motifs with modern functionality—and presents various iterations of it, beginning with raw untreated wood, before showcasing a wealth of different textures and saturations.

Stellar Works, puente de diseño entre Oriente y Occidente

La firma cuenta para su colección 2017 con diseños de diversos estilos, como Nerì&Hu.

Stellar Works es una empresa de ascendencia asiática que desde 2013 propone colecciones sostenibles, de nueva factura, inspiradas en estilos tradicionales de todo el mundo pero con preferencias por la sostenibilidad. Los muebles de la compañía visitan interiores como el del restaurante Norma de Copenhagen, el Baccarat Hotel de Nueva York o el hotel Yitel de Tianjin, o las boutiques de Gold en la región Asia-Pacífico.

Colección Mandarin, por Nerì&Hu

La colección encuentra la inspiración en la armonía y equilibrio que hay entre la forma clásica y las estéticas de modiaciones, pero han traducido estas cualidades en el diseño de una mesa y sillón siguiendo los tipologías de diseño de tempos asiáticos: la estrella que simboliza el Templo del Cielo frente a la forma cuadrada representada por el Templo de la Tierra.

Stellar Works’ East-West Dialogue

Shanghai-based Stellar Works sees itself as the first global furniture design house from Asia, and has been building its presence steadily since its founding in 2010. In November this year, Stellar presented a major instalment in the Tomas Maier collection.

The new product range exhibited a space within an apartment—a reimagined Western Italian living room within an existing building. A vast wall engaged across the structure, featuring a range of cast concrete furniture that collected its shape in deliberately alluring angles. The aim was to recast the Tectonicity of a Cast-Out West design, highlighting the juxtaposition of materials, section, light and colour.

Makrana’s new Harlequin Collection—shards, arrows and large LAMINIC® Mirrors—were juxtaposed as a very simplistic Italian furniture forms and civil-century sensualities. Apart from these, we have also featured the design of Akiko and Shiro Kuramata’s iconic sushi-like glasses: The culture is expressed in the duo’s playful Pegaso and Lusso mirrors, the latter as a beautiful representation of the design ethic itself: the charm of a well-executed piece with the work’s unapologetic Tectonicity.

The Koru Collection reproduces the typologies of chairs and benches, with the extending the functional possibilities of each form. The chairs in the collection are also seen specifically in sadness. The collection was created in 1931, Japan using 450-year old teak wood.

Bruce Goold has designed a chair that is inspired by the teak wood furniture made in the Scottish highlands. The chair was inspired by the forms and lines of the mid-century modern style, specifically the design of I.M. Pei. The chair is made from solid teak wood, high-back chair, and wood dining table.

Stellar Works presents Indigo: A Cultural Iconography, an installation by Kengo Kuma at the Design Museum exploring materiality for re-manufacturing and the associations between old and new and east and west. A Green-embellished Chair provides the starting point for the installation, presenting the chair in several further iterations, beginning with now untreated wood, before presenting a kaleidoscope of textures and saturations.

Leather interiors: from sofas and stools to murals for the wall
From stylish seating to luxe lamps, leather's good looks only improve with age

Top tip for stress-free domesticity is to surround ourselves with materials that improve with age. And at the head of the list of surfaces that look weathered is leather. It's a practical and tactile material: in the downsize side that it often comes wrapped around a shiny budget coach or reproduction library chair. Happily, designers are giving the material a fresh look.

The leather to lust after has traditionally been Italian-made and pricey. Poltrona Frau, the handmade furniture firm that creates upholstey for Ferrari, Alfa Romeo and Maserati, was founded in 1912. While proud of its heritage, it has placed itself at the forefront of contemporary leather designs, launching the Ren collection, by Nerij & Hu, in 2016, and this year reimagining its Chester

Modern Heroes: George Yabu and Glenn Pushelberg

By STEPHEN BRADLEY

Today’s modern heroes are George Yabu and Glenn Pushelberg who have been at the forefront of the ‘Danish Modern’ movement for the past few years. Their work is based on the idea that elegance and functionality are not mutually exclusive. The duo’s designs are not just about form, but also function, to create interiors that are both beautiful and practical. Their collaboration with Skitsch on the launch of their latest furniture collection is aimed at broadening their reach of innovation and collaboration.

IDEALIST: How did you get started working together?

George: Actually we met through work – in a luxury hotel in London and we worked on the same project. We shared a common language with our clients and we were able to translate our ideas into reality.

Glenn: And then we started working on each other’s projects.

George: The projects have been so similar, we thought we should work together. We have a strong history of working on projects that are both beautiful and functional.

Glenn: We’re always working on projects that are both beautiful and functional.

IDEALIST: What are you working on today?

George: We’re always working on projects that are both beautiful and functional.

在上海制造”为什么风靡欧洲？

我们讨论过设计品在宣传营销上的一些东西，也就是营销和理念，但设计并不只是这种东西，而是设计者需要通过设计去改变和塑造一个国家的文化。

今天在上海的Casa Facile杂志上，我们看到了一个关于上海制造的报道。报道中提到，上海制造正在以一种新的方式被国际社会所认知。

上海制造的特色在于其本土化的创新精神。上海的设计师们在不断探索新的设计语言，通过自己的设计来传达上海的故事。他们利用本地的材料和工艺，创造出具有地域特色的家居产品。

上海制造的家居产品不仅吸引着国内的消费者，也逐渐赢得了国际市场的认可。这些产品通过各种渠道进入国际市场，如家具展览、设计竞赛等，它们以独特的设计理念和精湛的工艺赢得了国际的认可。

上海制造正在成为一个新的设计潮流，它不仅仅是一种产品的制造，更是一种文化的输出。通过设计，上海正在向世界展示其独特的魅力。

In jedem April gilt diese eine Woche, an der die entzückende Atmosphäre zum Emporwinden der Design ausgewiesenen Möbelmesse Mailand. Eine Stadt, ein industrieller Bauherr, der sich für den – in diesem Fall – der Möbelindustrie gehört und ihnen ihren Platz im Design gibt. Ein Festival der Interieurs, die auf die Kosten der Welt geht und denen es nach einer Reform gilt zu werden. Die Stadtwerke war damals noch eher der Ort, wo die Parteien ihre Meinungen äußern. Doch mit dem neuen Design wird die Welt nicht nur Ästhetik und Form, sondern auch eine ästhetische Perspektive für die Kultur des Konsums und des Genusses „machte“ die Welt zum Design.

BLINK AND YOU’LL MISS IT ➤

There is no way you could fail to see the beautiful piece of design in this space, despite it always being in the middle of the room. The Kudinha-designed Filicudi collection for Schem Projects at ICFF was recently on display at the Design Miami, catching our attention straight away. The design is based on the concept of minimalism and simplicity, with a focus on clean lines and a neutral color palette. The combination of wood and glass creates a sophisticated and elegant look. The piece is not only a statement piece for any space but also a functional piece that can be used as a room divider or an art piece.

Knoll
Knoll celebrated its 100th anniversary by releasing an outstanding cluster of new collections presented at Salone del Mobile, one of which was Mark Newson’s Aluminium Chair – a series that pays homage to the structural chairs of Ludwig Mies van der Rohe, the forerunner of modernism. 10 years later, Newson’s designs (inspired by the space age) add a heavy dose of forward-thinking technique and materials to the original framework, still staying true to tradition.

Stellar Works
Stellar Works launched a new modular infinity sofa designed by Danish design team, Space Copenhagen. As the first global design brand from Asia, the sofa is an outstanding release that sees elegance combined with duality in form, soft curves and a striking appearance. Infinity was designed to have minimum edges and near invisible detailing, resulting in a sculptural and seamless piece that would provide ultimate comfort to the body – also available in a range of sizes, variations and finishes that can be personalised for different environments.

Samuel Wilkinson
CURLI is one of two debut products of BEM, the new lighting brand established by product and industrial designer Samuel Wilkinson, specialising in hand-crafted forms that make use of the latest LED technology, which allows the lights to emit bright, warm light for up to 30 years on minimal energy. CURLI is a sculptural interpretation of a lighting frame, with a continuous asymmetric shape and striking visuals.

Those with a yen for oriental traditions will want to see the design and technology of contemporary Japanese designers in Reflection Shadow by Yokohama Makers Village and the projects by twentieth-century designers such as Shiro Kuramata.

The Eastern atmosphere continues at Via Savona 56-bis, where an interactive exhibition by Sony in the Zegna space features common household objects that respond to the movements of the visitors, and at the Opificio 31 (Via Tortona 31) with the installation Stefani Works any/every/HERE by Neri & Hu.

Further on there is the Napaipi installation with a collection of designer clothing and a workshop where architects and designers share their ideas of creativity and sustainability. You can delve further into the theme by touring the containers transformed into luxury dwellings.

Neri&Hu con Space Copenhagen rivisitano oggetti iconici alla Milano Design Week

Neri&Hu, plurisempre premiati designer del brand Stellar Works di Shanghai, ha realizzato per la settimana del Salone del Mobile di Milano, insieme a Space Copenhagen, un’installazione evocativa dal titolo anyWHEREnone, sul tema del luogo e del contesto ed espone come gli oggetti definiscono il luogo in cui viviamo. L’installazione provoca la nostra consapevolezza e ci pone a domandarci cosa significhi essere in un luogo specifico o in qualsiasi luogo. Gli oggetti presentati sono le reiedizioni di pezzi vintage della metà del secolo scorso alla idea di Vilhelm Wohlert e Jens Risom, le riedizioni sono tutte prodotte a Shanghai.

In aggiunta all’installazione e alla riedizione di pezzi vintage, Stellar Works presenta una collezione di sedute che comprende sedie, poltrone e lounge chair per uso quotidiano in ambienti domestici o commerciali. Un’ulteriore novità presenta a Milano per la fosforizzazione è l’elegante Infinity sofa modulare che celebra la forma nella sua purezza, con sedute soffici e curvature che irradiano relax insito nel design essenziale per quanto inserito in una struttura robusta.

Everything We Saw During Milan Design Week (Well, Almost)

Milan Design Week 2018 has come and gone and Azure’s editors were on the ground to take it all in. From the crowded booths at Salone del Mobile to the many furniture installations throughout the city, here’s a comprehensive wrap-up of what we saw and experienced.

THE LEAD BEFORE THE STORM

It was a relatively quiet first day at the Salone del Mobile. According to organizers, however, more than 180,000 visitors allegedly converged under the glass canopy of the Fiera Milano Rho to attend the 58th annual edition of the fair. That number is still up for debate since only 148,000 tickets were sold. As a result, the entire floor was empty. In the meantime, the crowd behind the stand was large enough to fill the basements of the fair.

A sculptural level of chairsdominated a wall at the (better) designed showcases in Tortona Design District. Two further works by Studio Seilern and Seletti were in a creative direction. The works were on display in the space, which aimed to move traditional Shanghai neighborhoods.

Chinese designers are "developing their own language" say Heraihu

Nanjing Week 14 June 2018 | Leave a comment

Designers in China are no longer coping with the need as a new generation of home-grown talent emerges, according to London-based and Shanghai-based Heraihu.

Awareness of design among Chinese consumers is changing at "super speed", say the duo, while the government is encouraging the creative sector to develop original ideas rather than copying the west.

"The design scene in Shanghai is changing, extremely fast," Heraihu told Dezeen.

"Like, super-speed. Ten years ago people didn’t really understand modern design, nor did they appreciate it."

"Today things are changing," he said.

"Customers are learning really fast, and the market is shifting, and now people are seeking out things that have individual characteristics," said Liu, adding that there was now a "real hunger" and thirst for knowledge about contemporary design.

China wants to be more creative

"The shift comes at a time when the Chinese government is actively encouraging industry to be more creative and less reliant on overseas ideas."

In 2015, Chinese president Xi Jinping announced his Made in China 2025 initiative, which aims to reposition the country as a global power in design and innovation.

"Xi Jinping has called on Chinese companies to produce things that are really strong and unique, that are truly from China," said Sert. "There is support from the government to be creative so that we are not seen as a country that just copies things anymore."
Un paseo por la zona Tortona de Milán.

Pocos días antes se celebró en Milán el Salone del Mobile, la Exposición Internazionale del Mobile, uno de los eventos más importantes del mundo del diseño. Durante las semanas previas, la ciudad se transformó para acoger a los miles de visitantes internacionales que se congregaron en la ciudad durante los días del Salone del Mobile. Las calles y las plazas de Milán estaban llenas de exposiciones, talleres y conferencias sobre diseño y arquitectura.

Con sensación de alboroto se comienza a recorrer la zona Tortona, una de las zonas más emblemáticas del diseño italiano. La zona, conocida por sus espacios industriales convertidos en espacios de diseño, es un referente del mundo del diseño y es un lugar donde se concentran las principales empresas de diseño y arquitectura. La zona Tortona es el corazón del diseño en Milán y es un lugar donde se pueden encontrar las últimas novedades en diseño y arquitectura.

La zona Tortona es un lugar donde se pueden encontrar numerosas exposiciones y talleres. En la zona, se pueden encontrar exposiciones de las mejores empresas de diseño y arquitectura, como Zaha Hadid, Prada, y Fendi. En la zona, se pueden encontrar también talleres de diseño y arquitectura, donde los visitantes pueden participar en talleres de diseño y arquitectura y aprender de los mejores diseñadores y arquitectos del mundo.

La zona Tortona es un lugar donde se pueden encontrar también eventos culturales, como conciertos, exposiciones y conferencias. Los visitantes pueden disfrutar de una variedad de actividades culturales durante sus días en Milán, lo que les permite aprender de la rica historia de la zona y de la ciudad.

En conclusión, la zona Tortona es un lugar que no debe perdérselo a los amantes del diseño y la arquitectura. La zona es un referente del mundo del diseño y es un lugar donde se pueden encontrar las últimas novedades en diseño y arquitectura. En la zona, los visitantes pueden disfrutar de una variedad de actividades culturales y aprender de la rica historia de la zona y de la ciudad.

FUORISALONE 2018 - A COMPLETE GUIDE

Milano’s most anticipated event of the year is just around the corner. Here’s what you can expect from some of the biggest design districts in the city.

With just a month to go before Milano’s most anticipated event of the year, Milano Design Week 2018 (April 17-22), we’ve pulled out the stops to break down the city district-by-district between indoor events and outdoor installations. Come to expect to see familiar faces and to be offered new cuisines, events, and activities around town.

Fiera Salone 2018: Tortona Design District

Now in its third edition, Tortona District, in the Porta Genova area, is back up with the most international design. Organized by the Fiera Milano, the “Design Narratives” are the main theme of the event. The event includes over 150 design projects from around the world that are presented in a series of installations and exhibitions. The event aims to promote the exchange of ideas between designers and writers, and to highlight the latest trends in design.

At the heart of the Tortona Design District is the famous area of Porta Genova, which is known for its rich history and culture. The area is home to a number of important cultural institutions, including the Palazzo della Ragione and the Museo della Citta. The area is also home to a number of important design and architecture firms, including Zaha Hadid Architects, Prada, and Fendi.

The Tortona Design District is the perfect place to start exploring the city, with a range of events and activities to choose from. From the latest in design and architecture to the latest in fashion and art, the area has something for everyone.

Fiera Salone 2018: Porta Vincenzo in Design

Linking land & sea, Porta Vincenzo is an exhibition and design center. "Porta Vincenzo in Design" marks the 10th anniversary of this year's Porta Vincenzo. The central and decorative mezzanine will host a selection of architectural and design projects.

Concluding these premises, Porta Vincenzo is a place to see and be seen. In Porta Vincenzo, you will see the best of Italian design, both traditional and contemporary. The area is home to a number of important design and architecture firms, including Zaha Hadid Architects, Prada, and Fendi.

The Porta Vincenzo is the perfect place to see the latest in design and architecture, with a range of events and activities to choose from. From the latest in design and architecture to the latest in fashion and art, the area has something for everyone.

Stellar Works将携手如恩设计和雅布亮相科隆展

2018年1月15日至21日，Stellar Works将在科隆家具展上发布多个系列的新品，其中就有如恩设计（Neri&Hu）和雅布（Yabu Pushelberg）分别与之设计的产品。

如恩设计带来的系列作品为“Bund”，即“外滩”。外滩是上海的永久象征，这座城市的历史与居民的历史都可以在这里找到线索，整个系列包括壁柜、餐台、休闲咖啡桌和吧台，它们以其实用的线条和精英的面料，骨子里在讲DNA里的Art Deco风格致意。

Hey Show

Stellar Works 依旧不食人间烟火

2018年7月30日，Hey Show推出新刊。

Hey Show很怀念那些好食好喝好生活，好设计的岁月。Hey Show也很欣赏那些好食好喝好生活，好设计，而你愿意为之买单消费的人。所以，你们设计的 Industry 系列！格调！高档！Vitra和Woherz也设计的Triangle长椅在卷弄内雕塑——Space Copenhagen的Infinity沙发懒懒地躺在高架下——甚至，也将Jens Fåk的‘C140’桌子放在那里，或者Cabinet of Curiosities雕塑！上海的日常和那些经典之作！这些微妙的，上海人才知道的幽默感，不就希望传递出品牌“Made in Shanghai”的宣言吗？也希望能彰显出长久以来被视为激情，甚至被爱为“不可拥抱”的上海文化内涵，其实可以有所不同作！

Neri&Hu的诠释很贴切，在接下来品牌创意总监一职的时候，他却认为品牌正在从众多事情的“之间”！而品牌的“之间”！就是正确地有所取舍，特别是针对目标的DNA，所以，你们深思熟虑而妥善！而越接近于“今日上海代表著什么？”“今日中国上海是哪一个上海是哪一个上海是哪一个上海是哪一个上海是哪一个上海是哪一个上海是哪一个上海是哪一个中国！？虽然依旧是中国，但它有自己的文化，这就是为什么我们（在撰写本文）不致于“中国设计”！他解释！“上海设计”也意味着所有在这个城市中人和事所能看到的精采！”
Exciting new collections launched at Singapore Design Week 2018

by Home & Decor / Mar 26, 2018

Although new to Singapore, the brand was started in 2010 by Yutaka Hori, a former furniture designer from Japan, who decided to move his factory to Shanghai, as he was impressed with the city’s large-scale furniture factories with new machines and highly skilled workers.

Mr Hori doesn’t design anymore, but he works with leading design firms such as Hemline, Space Copenhagen, and CED Studio.

Mr Hori says Stellar Works was started as a way to bring ideas together: East and West, heritage and modernity, craft and industry. "By drawing together a unique combination of heritage, craft skills and production expertise from Europe and Asia, we have created an international design brand with cross-cultural resonance,” says Mr Hori.

In Singapore, Stellar Works chairs can be found in the Warehouse Hotel and at the Sixteen Club, and elsewhere such as Luda Bunt in Shanghai and at Art Deco’s Penthouse in London.

PS Studio, 213 Henderson Road, #01-08
The 30th edition of ICFF—the biggest event in the NYCDesign calendar—opened its doors on May 20. Visitors were treated to a truly knock-out event. Not only was ICFF celebrating 30 years of operation, during which time it has become the key North American event in the global design panorama, but there was also a stunning array of exhibitors and installations to wow the crowds.

The 100 participating brands—ranging from over 40 different countries—were split into 11 categories, including furniture, decoration, materials, bathtubs and fabrics. Meanwhile, the first-floor of the Jacob K. Javits Convention Center was reserved for the hottest new products in this year’s collections.

There were plenty of Italian names on show. Kartell offered up a varied range of products including some vastly improved models. Ceramiche Manetti, based in Italy and home to the Ceramiche Manetti brand, showcased a stunning range of washbasins, with its classic and the newest styles. The Italian ceramics industry played a key role in the event thanks to the “Ceramics of Italy” consortium, promoted by Confederazione Ceramica and EdiCer with additional support from I.C.E. Fiorano, Azulei Croceri, Fap and Rellin were just a few of the brands who took part in the initiative.

Representing the bathroom sector were Autentico, Gessi and Ebelli, with its focus on Wellness, and outdoor brands of the caliber of Boffi, Mimo and Nardi were also there. One brand worthy of a special mention is Roca, the Italian bathroom producer based in Florida.

Looking at the international panorama as a whole, stand-out brands included Flavor Paper, the New York brand producing exciting and creative wall papers, and Tadelakt, the leading Spanish manufacturer based in Miami. Bernhardt Design caught the eye for its comfortable, contemporary furniture, while Stellar Works impressed with its minimalist style.

Creative installations included VLA French Design's ‘Inno Tissue for Bad Tissue’. So Saved, so Saved… so La French Disciple exhibitions, a homage to French design. Also worth a visit was HandsMade in Germany, a collection of contemporary, hand-made products.

ICFF will return in December with ICFF South Florida, which takes place in Fort Lauderdale from 4 to 6 December.
5 Minutes With... Yuichiro Hori of Stellar Works

We catch up with the Tokyo-based designer, who founded Stellar Works in 2011 with high-end manufacturing at high volume in a factory in Shenzhen.

Yuichiro Hori has carved out a niche spot for high-end design in China. His brand was established in 2011 as a collaboration between an exquisite showroom for furniture and a factory in the nearby district. His vision was to bring the Japanese aesthetic to high-end furniture manufacturing in China. The result was a range of products that combined functionality and minimalism with an emphasis on simplicity and elegance.

This year also saw Stellar Works presented in Singapore. What makes it so special is the way it blended traditional Japanese craftsmanship with contemporary design. The company’s approach to furniture design is rooted in the belief that simplicity and functionality are key. Stellar Works’ furniture is characterized by clean lines, high quality materials, and a focus on longevity.

Utility Sofa by Meridian for Stellar Works

Stellar Works showcased the ‘Hans’ sofa by Meridian, which has been reimagined with a more refined silhouette, combining comfort with practicality and offering a sophisticated touch to the enduringly popular industrial aesthetic. In Singapore, Stellar Works is carried by Pi.

Chair 118 by Sebastian Herkner for Thonet

Sebastian Herkner interpreted the ‘Frammenti’ chair in a contemporary way for Thonet. With Chair 118, Herkner worked with Thonet, applying the idea of reducing a chair to its essential elements possible but adding refined details. The shape of the chair leg is an example: they are rounded on the back and characterised by a slight ellipse on the front, referencing the horseshoe shape of the seat. In Singapore, Thonet is carried by Xtras.

Milano Design Week 2018: zona Tortona
11 aprile 2018

Distinta stori właściciele, la zona Tortona negli ultimi tempi non ha regalato grandi sorprese. Il 2018 però potrebbe fare cambiare idea. Infatti, a partire dall’estate, non ce si vedranno le incursioni dei designere, ma iniziare una nuova avventura. La zona Tortona propone un mix di cultura e design, che si esprime attraverso la collaborazione con artisti emergenti e piccoli produttori locali.

Stellar Works Stole the Show

By Maureen K

Headquartered in Shanghai, Stellar Works produces minimalist furniture pieces that hark back to its Asian roots.

Shanghai may not be the first city to come to mind when it comes to furniture production, but Yosuke Hori hopes to change that with his Shanghai-based brand Stellar Works.

The founder recognizes the potential of the city’s manufacturing prowess and its growing design scene. “We opened our factory in Shanghai in 2010, with the concept of utilizing technical know-how from France while using Toyota production systems from Japan,” he adds. “The city is also very international, with a fast-growing economy and a multicultural history that reflects the essence of Stellar Works.”

Salone del Mobile 2018: 12 Must-Sees At The Milan Furniture Fair

By Hong Xinying
April 17, 2018

Every April in Milan, devotees of design lovers and industry insiders gather for Salone del Mobile alongside a blitz of events held as part of Milan Design Week. As the massive furniture fair kicks off in Milan this week, we share the collections to covet and the installations that inspire.

Running from April 17 to 22 this year, the 57th edition of the annual fair showcases the latest collections from leading brands from around the world, as well as emerging design names to watch. Here’s our pick of the pieces and collaborations to keep an eye on this year.

Settis into the welcoming embrace of this carry-on, designed by Shanghai-based practice Bai & Ma for Italian furniture maker Artha. It’s part of the Grazie collection, which comprises a sofa (pictured here), an armchair, and a small table.

Each design features a triangular construction and a corset-like strap that wraps around the back, as well as elegant legs that make it appear to float above the ground.

How to bring the inside out this summer

By Jessica Doole
25 MAY 2018 - 8:00AM

With the late May bank holiday upon us and National Rushcane Week kicking off on Monday - now is the time to make your garden summer-ready.

Figures just released by the website House suggest that one in seven of us have a usable outdoor area that is larger than that inside our homes, and we’re far more likely to make use of it if we put some effort into making it comfortable.

"People talk about bringing the outside in, but when deciding on your garden furniture, think about taking the inside out," says...
Concrete crowds returned to Milan Design Week 14 April to experience a week bristling with pioneering projects, awards and a series of spectacular events. Amidst a sea of launches at another Salone del Mobile, in town, exhibits became increasingly central: from former factories to residential homes. During the week, Wallpapers travelled the streets to uncover the trailblazing exhibitions and events, bringing you the five highlights as they happened.

Space Copenhagen

Through sensitive design, we make traditional and historical materials and methods fit for the modern world.

Homegrown flair at the Shan Fair

Stephen Todd, Design Editor

Mar 19, 2019 — 8:49pm

When the Design Shanghai fair launched six years ago the "Made in China" label was deemed so compromised by counterfeiting that the line-up featured no Chinese brands at all.

Not so the latest edition of Design Shanghai, held this month in the grandiose Shanghai World Expo Exhibition and Convention Centre (a gift from Josef Stalin to Mao Zedong in 1955). Featuring among hundreds of international heavy hitters including Alesis, Porsche and Boffi, the work of 68 Chinese designers was on show in a show dedicated to the country.

Discipline Sofa

Designed by Heshl, the Discipline sofa series is based on a single seating horizontal element. The modular system supports upholstered sections in four possible arrangements: straight, back and corners, both of which can be set at the right or left hand end.

With a low-slung profile and set on four slender stainless-steel legs, the solid wood and veneer plans seem to hover just above the ground. The individual pieces can be used as standalone seating or grouped in L-shaped and trapezoidal combinations. Upholstery options include wool and a variety of leathers, while an expandable side table can be affixed on either side.

In 1964, President Lyndon B. Johnson was photographed sitting on a C140 chair (designed in 1955) in the Oval office when he signed the Civil Rights Act with Martin Luther King. This reissued version is upholstered in a Kvadrat fabric created by mid-century Danish textiles designer Nanna Ditzel. The chair’s creator Jens Risom emigrated from Denmark to New York in 1939, and designed most of Hans Knoll’s first furniture collection, before setting up his own company. “His shaping of the frame and the line of the chair look in many ways like Gio Ponti’s,” says Yuichiro Horii, founder of Shanghai-based Stellar Works. My favourite minimalist furniture launches at Milan Design Week 2019 – part 1

By Cate St Hill

The Crawford Collection by Tessa Fredericks (Lara Crawford and Tessa Fredericks) launched at Milan Design Week and now Cate St Hill has collaborated with the furniture brand. Tessa Fredericks has launched a new collection at Furniture Fair in Milan which includes a new range of furniture.

The collection was the result of a Creative Callout to young, emerging designers in Sydney last year, to help them grow their businesses and scale up production. Commercialising a design idea, to be distributed globally, is a unique challenge, but Fredericks is determined to make it work. The high-quality handmade furniture is made with felt underfoot and has a tactile finish.

Stefan Brenchley: The collection is a considered range with a sense of design detail and a focus on honest materials and longevity of design. With sustainability at the forefront, the Crawford collection was designed with both longevity and longevity in mind.

The Crawford collection is available online at Lara Crawford stores and selected locations. For more information, visit the website or get in touch with the designers. The collection is designed to suit a variety of settings and is available in a range of colours and styles.

At Salone del Mobile, two of Hong Kong’s hottest design stars reflect on their past, present and future.

Scre Averett: What are some of the key changes that you’ve experienced in your studio, your practice and your life in general since you founded Neri&Hu in 2004?

Rossana Hu: We’ve had to deal with many different transformations. There’s been growth, there’s been some kind of a lag, and then a few other things that we learned through experience, so I think these were really important and ever-changing. At the core of what we do is the belief in the power of design as a catalyst for change. We’ve always been about working on projects that challenge the status quo, and we’ve always been about working in a way that’s informed by social and environmental considerations. Indra, the new lighting collection by Nikolai K讲故事

Nikolai K的故事 and Murray began talking about the specifics of a lighting collection but at first this was focused on large-scale glass elements. These proved to be too difficult to manufacture and various other material options were explored including glass and porcelain. Although appealing the porcelain process ended up losing some of the original language of the design, so I pretty much started from scratch and presented new concepts," says K的故事. "Two years ago K的故事 and Murray settled on a design that captured something of the essence of Copenhagen streets. "I just sent out two dimensional drawings, nothing overly detailed but they had the same anchor details and decorative inter-connecting features as what has ended up in the final versions of 'Indra'. The actual design of the lighthouse came later at a workshop we did in a cafe in Milan. We knew we wanted a blown glass feature, but we were thinking of ways to incorporate a diffuser and this led to all of us thinking - why not integrate the lighting element and diffuser into a single unit. It was really simple, but this was technically very challenging," says K的故事.

"Cercate, cercate e troverete", in questa sezione troverete, aggiornate di sempre nuove, tutte le guide degli eventi di Fuorisalone, con un’occhiata alle zone, paesi e donne, che sono state realizzate in collaborazione con Design Street.

Petite Marille, come conosciuto il Furrisalone di Milano da noi nella sezione "Cercate, cercate e troverete".

COME USARE QUESTA GUIDA
Sappiamo che una guida su come vedere al Furrisalone di Milano, un evento di 1300 eventi, non può essere completa e neppure può essere una panoramica di tutti. La selezione che trovate in questa guida al FuoriSalone si basa sulla nostra esperienza di oltre 10 anni del Salone del Mobile, attraverso le esperienze di questo guida-visitatori, sempre europei, che vedono le cose diversamente: non solo gli eventi più interessanti ma anche i luoghi più belli della Milano che, nei giorni del Fuorisalone, ci si prestano come un fenomeno primavera, mostrando le loro bellezze segrete.

IL NOSTRO CONSILIUM
La nostra guida segnala, quando possibile, un particolare notizie, che possono segnare anche a parte e che vi potrete far conoscere da un evento all’altro. Se avete solo mezza giorno completa, vi consigliamo di concentrare su un distretto al giorno. Magari due, se avete una giornata intera.

ATTENZIONI LA NOSTRA GUIDA AGGIORNATE CONTINUAMENTE
Questo guida al meglio del Furrisalone di Milano viene aggiornata in tempo reale, giorno dopo giorno, a base degli eventi e alle relazioni che ricevono le redazioni. Vi consigliamo di fare un tour per vedere tutte le aggiornamenti che vi interessano tutti tre giorni al Fuorisalono. 13 Aprile 2021

COME AFFRONTARE IL FURRISALONE DI MILANO 2021
Tutte le città sono divise e cambia il momento durante la settimana del Fuorisalone. Prevedere e gestirvi nel modo migliore è per scoprire cose e aspettative nuove.

Durante il Fuorisalone di Milano c’è sempre tanto da vedere e da scoprire. Gli eventi si svolgono in varie architetture immobiliari, le day rooms, le case e le case di design. Le loro strade sono caratterizzate da teatri, spazi di evento, musei e negli straordinari cartoni interi che si collocano direttamente ai loro.
Stellar Works Launches the Taylor Collection by Yobu Pushe Berg
Mar 04, 2019

Stellar Works has unveiled the Taylor Collection designed by Yobu Pushe Berg. Composed of clean, comfortable, and functional designs, the global design studio sought to create a collection of essentials that effortlessly work together but are not tied to a specific genre. Taylor’s source of inspiration was longform decor, enabling the collection to inspire interior designers with a multitude of environments. From executive areas and hotels to residential projects. The range goes from minimalistic to subdued yet tailored wood-hued dining chairs from bars. Yobu Pushe Berg involved the design to create a table collection featuring console, chairs, tables, and a cabinet.

Designing Series and Form

The Taylor Chelsea is a modern wooden bench designed with chamber chairs to create an elegant and refined look. The chair, with its rounded and flared back leg, integrates smooth, flowing lines from front to back for an effectively stylish aesthetic.

The Taylor Dining Table is composed of six pedestal tables. Its unique design and variety of sizes allow for an elegant and comfortable dining experience, perfect for any occasion. The pedestal design not only adds a touch of elegance but also makes it easy to access the dining area from all sides.

Bar Stool and Counter Stool

The Taylor bar stool and counter stool are modern designs, featuring unique details. As with the dining chair, the surface of the seat is finished in two modern and classic aesthetics.

ENKI MAGAZINE

UK

Nov 26, 2019
Stellar Works has just unveiled its first ever collection with Australian designer Sarah Victorian, and enki’s luxury department store, COCO Studio. The collection, which will make its first public debut from 21-23 May 2019 at Sydney’s Design Week, was conceived following COCO Studio’s creative director, Callum Days, to enhance the store’s ability to create a new furniture range for Stellar Works.

Composed of a lounge chair, table range with dining chair and bed, the Crawford Collection reflects the core ethos of Stellar Works’ ethos. These beautifully crafted, crafty designs – featuring natural materials and exquisite details – capture modern design and innovative excellence as well as enunciating a style that is also effortlessly appealing to a wider intellectual audience. The new pieces also represent a fusion of cultures that celebrate the growing design movement in the Asian Pacific region.

“Luminous, voluminous, and sensual, Luminous by Stellar Works finds inspiration in Japanese art, celebrating the beauty of simplicity and minimalism,” says COCO Studio’s creative director, Callum Days. “It’s a bold and beautiful addition to our range and we’re pleased that Stellar Works has chosen to work with us to bring these unique pieces to life.”

In addition to Stellar Works’ collection, COCO Studio has also commissioned a custom piece for the store’s interior design, which further enhances the overall aesthetic of the space.

The design trend has just continued its collaboration with Copenhagen-based design studio, Cecilie Manz, to create the collection of the first lighting collection, Luminous. Its a long-term project that has resulted in a stunning selection of lighting fixtures that reflect the essence of Stellar Works and COCO Studio’s collaboration.

The collaboration between Stellar Works and COCO Studio highlights the importance of sustainability and responsibility in design, with both companies prioritizing the use of natural materials and energy-efficient lighting solutions. The collection provides a fresh perspective on the future of design and sets a new course for the interior design industry.

Yuichiro Hori, founder and CEO of Stellar Works, discusses how his furniture brand is reinventing “Made in China”, proudly showing off its Shanghai-based manufacturing and how it has single-mindedly challenged the stereotype that China is only synonymous with mass-volume and low-quality production.

Why are you proud of the “Made in Shanghai” label?

People have a fixed mindset of “Made in China”, so we want to go the opposite way. China is the biggest production platform for any industry, but nobody creates a brand. It’s a new approach, a different angle and brings curiosity. Shanghai is very international and diverse, so what’s important is not the origin of the manufacturing, but the story of the brand, the quality and design. We’re a Japanese-French company, a joint venture. Our Shanghai factory is a kind of hybrid: we use Japanese manufacturing operations, Toyota production systems, like how to arrange production planning, systems or visible quality control. Now lots of Japanese companies are using this method to get the best efficiency and the best quality management, so it’s also useful for furniture factories. We brought this Japanese know-how to Shanghai, but the technical know-how is from France, and many of our workers are Chinese. Our managers are Italian, Japanese and French, and they manage the whole production quality using Chinese resources.
Michelle floor mirror (£2,158) for Australian brand SP01. Its tubular steel frame deceives the eye, appearing as nothing more than a thin black line supporting a smoked-glass mirror and marble-topped valet stand. George Yabu and Glenn Pushelberg of Toronto and New York-based design studio Yabu Pushelberg make no apology for their understated Blink screen (£1,380) and vanity table (£1,590) for Stellar Works. “There is a naïve quality to the collection that is balanced by a clarity of form and simplicity of materials,” Yabu explains.
Stellar Works debuts new furniture designs at Furniture China

Stellar Works showed a series of new pieces at Furniture China, China’s leading furniture fair, from September 9-12. Stellar Works presented spaces that forward innovative elements, with intentional settings, leading visitors through time immemorial rooms with the journey reimagining an interior space by Muniz Design. The spaces showcased Stellar Works’ unique approach to a variety of interior contexts and settings, creating indoor and outdoor living, with many new pieces being shown for the first time at China. Stellar Works also paired with a variety of designers to complement its collections.

Each of the nine ‘rooms’ takes on a different personality, utilizing Stellar Works’ most recent launches, to create an assortment of environments that highlight the versatility of the brand’s new collections. The pieces include designs from Stellar Works’ Chaise Direction Rattan and long-term collaborations with Space Copenhagen, Yabu Pushelberg, and Officina Studio that debuted in Milan in April this year. In addition, Stellar Works showcased its first collection with Australian designer Tim Eversley.

The stand received Design Collection at the Australian designer’s first collaboration with Stellar Works and represents a fusion of cabinetry that celebrates the growing design movement in the Asia Pacific region. Eversley’s designs utilize natural materials, subtle finishes, and subtle, yet elegant details.

11 Product Highlights from Clerkenwell Design Week

May 23, 2019

By Karme Moyo

Clerkenwell Design Week—which took place in one of London’s most vibrant districts—celebrated its 10th anniversary from May 21-23. The United Kingdom’s leading independent design festival showcased seven exhibitions in different venues, each with a specific focus: Design Days for international contemporary design; Platform for emerging talent; Project for a selection of contract furniture and surface brands; British Collection for UK designers; Detail for fine craftsmanship; Elements for ironmongery, hardware, switch plates and architectural accessories; and Light for International lighting brands.

Over three days, professionals and visitors had the opportunity to discover pop-ups and installations, and to attend workshops and talks. Around 100 showrooms were involved in the 2019 edition, including Arper, Bert Frank, Deedis, Wiltshires Myllus, Nogal, Pieemne Co., Sadus, and Workstories, among many others. Here are our top 11 products from the show.

8 Bedroom Layout Solutions to Solve Any Problem

Written by GAELLE SAVIO
Updated Apr 01, 2016

Awkwardly Empty Corner

This might be the oldest rule in the playbook, but if you have an awkward empty corner in your bedroom, fill it with a small reading nook. A chair, side table, and a floor lamp can add just the right layer of sophistication to a space without overwhelming—and it also breaks up the hard lines of heavy furniture. Other great options include a bench or a nightstand.

Stellar Works

Stellar Works was established in 2012 as a way to bring ideas together: East and West, heritage and modernity, craft and industry, bringing the best of the past into the light of the present. Their aim was to inspire a renaissance in Asian aesthetics, taking the forms, styles and motifs that have characterized Japanese design across the centuries and filtering them through the lens of the European tradition to create something new and timeless.

Stellar Work’s creative direction is overseen by the Neri&Hu Design and Research Office. Founded in 2004, the design practice is based in Shanghai and London and led by architects Lyndon Neri and Rossana Hu. The company’s diverse, multicultural team strives to reinvent classic craft, adding a fresh, contemporary touch to their projects and collaborations all over the world. Photo: Taran Wikhu.

La instalación forma parte de «Behind the Scenes», una colaboración con AgapeCasa para la cual 10 marcas creativas colaboraron para hacer referencia a sus propias interpretaciones de la tercera instancia en el tercer acto: la fachada. Las dos piezas están compuestas por un muro de entradas centrales que escinden dos conceptos creativos.

La instalación de Stellar Works, titulada «Behind the Scenes», está compuesta por dos diferentes módulos de madera de teca, la suya, y otra de aluminio, que a su vez se combinan en los espacios del magnífico Teatro Massimo en la ciudad de Nápoles, si se sigue al reverso como un lugar para ver y ser visto y en donde los roles del espectador y el intérprete se revierten. La instalación es un espectáculo en múltiples niveles organizados en un viaje secuencial a lo largo de la Galería.

Stellar Works partners with Yabu Pushelberg on Taylor range

30 SEPTEMBER 2019 | IN PRODUCTS | BY DONNA SALEK

Stellar Works has revealed its Taylor collection designed by Yabu Pushelberg, featuring a range of sofas, chairs, tables and a cabinet.

The Taylor dining chair is wood-framed with modern, chamfer details and a flushed seat surface that integrates the upholstery from seat to frame to create a striking silhouette, whilst the matching dining table is intricately designed and available in soap-finished walnut. The bar stool and counter stool in the collection also feature chamfer details and a flushed seat surface for a modern yet classic aesthetic.

The sofa is a sectional piece designed with soft curves and minimal upholstery details in the seat, back and arm rests and, echoing the lines in the sofa, the complementary lounge chair is multidimensional in shape and form. Designed as a structural form, the Taylor valet is a three-logged wooden piece that is balanced by a fixed stone tray.

For the collection, Yabu Pushelberg refined every detail to its essence, breaking down ideas to their most basic elements to meet people’s needs. The collection values modesty, ensuring that each detail does not intrude on the other and instead unites to create a strong, collective character.

“We designed the collection in a similar way you tailor a bespoke suit; with precision and Stellar Works introduces Crawford range

9 MAY 2019 | IN PRODUCTS | BY BEN THOMAS

Stellar Works has launched its first ever collection with Australian designer Tom Fereday and Asia’s luxury department store Lane Crawford. The Crawford collection was conceived following Lane Crawford’s Creatve Call Out Sydney in 2018, for which Tom Fereday was the winner, to create a new furniture range for Stellar Works. Part of the series was showcased in Milan for the Salone del Mobile, though it will have its full UK debut at Clerkenwell Design Week.

Comprising a lounge chair, bed, table range and dining chair, the series follows Stellar Works’ ethos and was developed on the principle of design that celebrates Asian sensibilities but reinterpret them for an international audience.

The refined Crawford Lounge Sofa, crafted from solid timber with a low-slung design and linear steel frame, is available in both an armless and armchair versions, while a second minimal solid timber chair is designed to embrace the user with a formed and shaped backrest. The chair is characterised by a stainless steel frame that supports the sculptural timber elements and allows for stacking, while its seat comes in upholstered or timber options.

The Crawford Table range meanwhile features a chartered solid timber top set above steel frame legs. With bespoke brass fittings and a removable rotating central platter, the table encourages a social dining experience. A smaller coffee table is also available.

Stellar Works outlines plans for Milan Design Week

14 MARCH 2019 | IN PRODUCTS | BY BEN THOMAS

Stellar Works has revealed its plans for Milan Design Week 2019, where it is set to collaborate with Agape in Galleria Marconi as part of a behind the scenes installation. The two brands reference their own dramatic interpretations of theatre – inspired by the neighbouring Teatro Marconi, and will share a central entrance foyer that brings together the two creative concepts.

Conceived by Stellar Works’ creative directors Neri&Hu, the concept will see the brand taking over multiple spaces within the iconic Galleria, where they will showcase new furniture and lighting designs by Neri&Hu, Space Copenhagen, Yabu Pushelberg, Deve Studio and Tom Fereday, alongside reissues of mid-century vintage pieces by Vilhelm Wohlert and Jens Risom.

Taking inspiration from the surroundings of the 1930s Teatro Marconi, “The Montage” references the theatre as a place to see and be seen, where the roles of the spectator and performer can often be blurred. The installation is executed as a collage of multiple small theatres arranged in a sequential journey along the Galleria.

Each theatre features its own orientation and colour palette, with stepped levels acting as stages displaying the new collections. Visitors will also find themselves in the spotlight, with framed openings offering multiple views and also allowing glimpses of the...
The Shanghai-based furniture brand, Stellar Works, is launching new products at Design Shanghai for the very first time. The brand has revealed pieces by Neri&Hu, Jens Risom, and Space Copenhagen at the Design Shanghai fair. The new designs also include reissues of mid-century pieces, while offering all new designs too. Stellar Works founder Yuichi Hiroi stated: "It's the first launch for us in Shanghai because every year in the past we have always launched in Milan," adding: "Milan is very important, but it's also important to say we are in Shanghai, that Shanghai is becoming international and that there's lots of design movement here."

Stella Works also launched the Discipline sofa, Bund table, and Cabinet of Curiosities: Dress. These come as part of a long-running collaboration with Shanghai architects Lyndon Neri and Rossana Hu. The sofa boasts a wooden base that sits low on metal legs. The cushioned backrest and buttoned upholstered seat make a nice touch. It can be configured from a small tea-seater sofa, up to a 25-meter-long bench, or placed back-to-back. Neri&Hu spoke about their creations, stating: "The wardrobe rests on a metal trolley inspired by scenes from a ceramic factory, before the cart enters the furnace." adding: "The furnace represents the trials and tribulations we all encounter in life, from which we offer up sweat and tears, pain and pleasure."

Stellar Works collaborated with Agayaace to create 'Escalate the Scene', an exhibition in Galleria Massoni where both brands share their view on theatre.

Text by Machteld Jaegers

This Milan design week sees leading global brand Stellar Works shown the Montreal from 8 – 14 April at Galleria Massoni. The installation is part of behind the Scenes which is a collaboration with Agayaace. The brand shares a central essence - a vision that brings together two creative concepts that take inspiration from theatre and Nordic Modern. This joint show leads visitors to new perspectives.

The Montage is inspired by the neighboring Teatro Massoni. It references to the theatre as a place to see and be seen. Where the line between spectator and performer is blurred.

The inspiration is an elegant, soft, small theatre in the Galleria which features its own perspective and color palate, creating a collage. Together, a sequential journey is formed with stepped levels acting as stages. Each showcases new furniture and lighting from a variety of designers.

The Crawford Collection shows a sofa, bed, tables and a dining chair are shown. Following Stellar Works' ethos, the collection was developed on the principle of homely design that celebrates local sensibilities, while reinterpreting them for an international audience.

Stellar Design collaborated with Copenhagen-based OEO Studio to create its first lighting collection. A space that is also on display, OEO Studio's design draws inspiration from analog experiences and rituals, such as placing items on a window sill or taking photos with a camera.

A well-known acquired Space Copenhagen debuts a number of new collections in The Montage. Covering a range of furniture typologies, the collections continue to be together Japanese and Scandinavian design traditions.

Thanks to the conductive strip, the lights could be shifted along the strip by removing a clamp and sliding them along to the desired position, all the while being able to draw electricity from the clamp and keep the lights on without any additional wiring. This system makes it very easy to rearrange the lights to suit your needs. The design from Vibo is a modern take on the classic Arne Jacobsen's Penelope lamp.

Stellar Works launches new collections at Galleria Teatro Manzoni in Milan. The Shanghai-based global design brand Stellar Works will debut an installation referencing dramatic interpretations of theatre at Galleria Manzoni, inspired by the neighbouring Teatro Manzoni.

Creation directors Norr&Hu have conceived a montage of ‘theatres’ throughout the Galleria, each with its own orientation and colour palette with stepped levels acting as ‘stages’ displaying new collections.

STELLAR WORKS FRAME
One of these collections born out of a collaboration between Stellar Works and Nendo this year. Frame is a multipurpose steel-frame system. The wall-hanging L-shaped structurally customizable with small circular and long elliptical mirrors, which are used in combination with shelves and towel bars. What’s more, floor elements enable the frame to be used as a free-standing mirror in garment slides. The design is suitable for home environments as well as hospitality and contract spaces.

FURNITURE
As You Like It

One of the year’s most striking furniture debuts is on a smallish scale, in the form of a Japanese, shoe-inspired chair made for Schoolboy. The Slone is designed to provide seating for short periods of time, like a trip into China's massive market for furniture. Instead of featuring a traditional, solid wood frame, it has been designed to incorporate modern materials and techniques. The chair is also designed to be compact, making it ideal for use in small spaces or for temporary seating. Another addition to the Slone line is the Blond, a modern-style chair that features a sleek, contoured design. The Blond is made from high-quality materials and is designed to provide comfortable seating for extended periods of time.

Новая коллекция мебели Nendo для Stellar Works

Nendo с трудом могли создать мебель, которую бы они хотели сами использовать. Stellar Works. В тот же день кресло стало неотъемлемой частью зала и стола. Оно носит название - "Торс", и оно прекрасно сочетается

Кресло Nendo характеризуется своими яркими и необычными формами, которые необычны и привлекательны для эксперимента как визуально, так и в целом. Посетители, приходящие в зал, оценивают его необычность и уникальность.
Zen-Minimalismus aus Shanghai: Die neue Kollektion von Stellar Works

Stellar Works' new extended collection is here

Stellar Works extends its celebrated collection by Doshi Levien, Holger Honorokl and Toke Freytag-Larsen

As part of its 2020 collection, Stellar Works created extensions to existing collections by top names spanning the design world, as well as new collaborations with Holger Honorokl and local designers in Korea. The extension to the three main collections is the result of the design process started in Shanghai last year and is being launched in partnership with Stellar Work's extended activity in the sustainability. The collection also means to establish Stellar Work's position for a refined international architecture with emphasis of Asian culture.
Japanese Allure, Industrial Motif

Stephen Weeks introduces new lighting collection by GLOBO Helsinki and Space Copenhagen.

Helsinki Weeks has become globally recognized for its design vision, building strong design collaborations and delivering exceptional outcomes. The vision of new lighting is to expand options with their designs taking inflection on a direct approach specifically.

Space Copenhagen's vision is driven by the idea to build the Japanese mood for "inhabiting" and to design that includes a Japanese influence. "Space is a reflection of our constant search for a balance between simplicity and precision, in the desire for a differentiated look," says Tang.

On design of their lighting collection, Space Copenhagen says, "In a Japanese, any piece of furniture is integrated with its functional purpose. We call it "decorative elegance." By applying this philosophy to their collection of lighting, they have created a unique balance between simplicity and elegance. They have achieved it by integrating traditional Japanese aesthetics with modern design elements.

The resulting designs are both functional and beautiful, combining traditional craftsmanship with contemporary materials and techniques.

Stellar Works y Nendo presentan su primer trabajo colaborativo

Como parte de sus lanzamientos 2020, Stellar Works y el estudio de diseño Nendo compartieron las primeras imágenes de sus tres nuevas colecciones: Blend, Frame y Kite.

Cada una de las piezas comparten y aprovechan la experiencia en diseño y el meticuloso proceso del estudio de Oko Sato junto con la sapiencia inigualable en la artesanía para la producción de muebles y accesorios de Stellar Works.

Blend es un sofá para liar de tres, patas que combina un marco de madera, negro con madera maciza de nogal y roble. Además, cuenta con un reposapiés de forma transversal y existen cinco variantes disponibles, donde la que más destaca es la que las patas forman parte del respaldo.

Frame es uno de los marcos para always más recientes, que van desde forjar como toallero a sostener un espejo, hasta utilizarse como un estante.

Finalmente, Kite es un sofá compacto diseñado para espacios cimenteros y de hospitalidad, particularmente en lugares pequeños, para ofrecer un poco de calma y seguridad. El respaldo y el asiento son partes independientes con espacios poco profundos.

DESIGN ANTHOLOGY
Hong Kong
Sep 23, 2020
How has the design industry adapted to lockdown life? When this is all over, what lessons and innovations will we take forward and what will we leave behind?

It’s a mantra being repeated widely in design circles: do we need continuous growth? “There is clearly an opportunity to challenge the status quo and recalculate what is important and how it might change,” says Lloyd. “The pre-pandemic culture of production and consumption that we have all become so familiar with is both a symptom and cause of the global world that allowed Covid-19 to so easily take control. I believe that the patterns of life will reform as a result of the crisis.”

That said, there are those coming out of lockdown demonstrating how things can return to what we once called normal, and maybe the world won’t look so different after all. Stellar Works’ factory in Jiujiang, China is back to 90% production, with new collections launching digitally later this month. “Thankfully, we are now on the other side of the corona virus and business here is returning to normal,” says CEO and founder, Yachen Hei.

But will minds and bank balances allow us to return to pre-lockdown consumption? New York’s David Rockwell is optimistic: “As a firm we have weathered national and international crises before, from 9/11 to the Great Recession and emerged stronger. We shouldn’t quickly assume a different world. There are parts of the human experience that are fundamental to who we are and that includes socialising, dining together, gathering for theatre and entertainment, and learning together. Our work is about creating environments that are in total service to our rituals, enhancing whatever real time, in person interactions are taking place within the space—to make them more memorable, more emotional and ultimately more meaningful.”

And from Italy, which has been locked down now for six weeks. “Surely there will be a decline but I can’t see how long and deep. The house has regained even more importance by becoming our refuge in recent weeks. Many will be thinking about how to make it even more comfortable with quality and long-lasting products. Belonging to this sector in a certain sense can benefit us,” says Agape’s Benedetti.

As Tom Parker calls it, the best we can do is remain agile, roll with the punches, and use the time and space the virus affords us to refocus the industry to care better for the planet as well as its own community. “I don’t think the pandemic will so much change the world as accelerate processes that were already underway: de-globalisation, growing inequality, surveillance and so on,” says Chen. “We’ll probably see more consolidation in its euphemistically called, with smaller players having an increasingly tough time. But I have faith in the design world’s ingenuity; we will all find a way.”

Stellar Works’ VDF products fair showcase features chairs by Nendo and Nerli&Hu

Lizzie Creek | 20 June 2020

Stellar Works has launched three of its latest collections for 2020 at VDF products fair, including chairs designed by Nendo and Nerli&Hu.

The Shanghai furniture brand has also unveiled a modular storage system called Setion that it has developed with its longstanding collaborator Cito Studio.

Now live at the VDF products fair, the showcase is the latest part of the VDF x Stellar Works collaboration, following a few panel discussions with the brand’s CEO Yujiro Hirai, Nerli&Hu and Space Copenhagen that was hosted by Dezeen’s Marcus Fairs earlier this month.
Kite armchair by Nendo for Stellar Works

Dezeen staff | 29 June 2020

Dezeen Showroom: Stellar Works has collaborated with Nendo on the compact and modular Kite chair that is designed for small and narrow spaces.

Kite is distinguished by a multilayered form that combines various independent components, including a curved seat and statement shield-like backrest, supported by a slender metallic frame.

Intended for use in commercial and hospitality spaces, it was developed by Nendo and Stellar Works to take up minimal space in response to a lack of furniture suited to narrow common spaces in places like hotels and offices.

"Kite is a compact armchair designed with commercial and hospitality spaces in mind and in particularly small spaces," said Shanghai furniture brand Stellar Works.

"There are numerous armchairs and sofas for lobbies and lounges, but well-executed designs for narrow spaces such as corridors, elevator lobbies, and entrances are in short supply."

Kite is covered in a speckled grey upholstery, and available with a backrest in two different heights and seat with two depth options to help users tailor it to the space and level of privacy required.

It forms part of Nendo’s wider 2020 collection for Stellar Works, which also includes a multi-purpose steel frame system, aptly named Frame, and a three-legged bar stool named Blend.

Stack chair by Neri&Hu for Stellar Works

Dezeen staff | 29 June 2020

Dezeen Showroom: Furniture brand Stellar Works has collaborated with Neri&Hu to create the Stack chair that boasts a “strong graphic character”.

The Stack chair is designed by the architecture and design studio Neri&Hu for use in a variety of spaces and, as its name suggests, has a stackable form to ensure ease of storage.

It is characterised by its lightweight, tubular steel frame, which is teamed with a wooden seat and backrest. While supporting the chair, the tubular frame runs continuously and seamlessly around Stack’s entire silhouette to provide it with a distinctive graphic finish.

“This lightweight, multipurpose chair is designed with a thin tubular steel frame, which acts as the supporting element for the seat but also follows the entire silhouette of the chair as a distinctive design feature,” explained Shanghai-based Stellar Works.

“The continuous lines give Stack a strong graphic character, while maintaining softness and comfort, due to the three-dimensional steel bending technique used.”

Stack is one of several collections by Stellar Works launching throughout 2020, which the company has developed together with new and existing collaborators.

Selon storage by OEO Studio for Stellar Works

Dezeen staff | 29 June 2020

Dezeen Showroom: Selon is a modular storage system designed by OEO Studio for Stellar Works that can double as a partition and be built in various configurations.

The versatile system is intended for use in both domestic and commercial interiors and can be built with varying heights and widths for use as a cabinet, shelving unit or freestanding room divider.

Selon is made as an easy-to-assemble, flat-pack kit and offers a pared-back yet industrial finish, composed of walnut and oak wood shelves, a powder-coated steel frame and polished brass feet.

The system is the latest design developed by Danish company OEO Studio in its ongoing collaboration with Stellar Works, with whom it has worked since 2012.

“This year OEO Studio presents Selon, a new versatile modular storage system that can be adapted to form high and low shelving and cabinet options,” said Shanghai furniture brand Stellar Works.

“It can also be configured as a freestanding room divider and comes in an easy-to-assemble flat pack,” it continued. “Selon is a functional piece.”

Selon is one of multiple Stellar Works collections launching throughout 2020, which the company has developed with both new and existing collaborators.

Designers "preparing for a worsening situation and supply problems" due to coronavirus

Marco Fairs | 10 March 2020

Designers are preparing for significant disruption to their businesses and supply chains as the coronavirus spreads around the world.

Industry sectors including lighting, fashion, sportswear and automotive have been hit by the shutdowns of factories in China, with brands struggling to get hold of stock and components.

UK designer lighting brand Phanum, which manufactures all its lights in China, said it faced delays of six to eight weeks in getting hold of stock.

"The immediate result for Phanum is that we are now out of stock of our two best selling products, the 001 LED and the 002 LED," said Phanum co-founder and MD Michael-Georg Hemus. "This obviously affects revenues over the next two months."

Architecture projects in Europe could be delayed

Factories in China are now reopening following an extended shutdown caused first by Chinese New Year and then by coronavirus.

"Like almost all businesses in China, the coronavirus outbreak resulted in an extended closure of the Stellar Works production facility following the Lunar New Year holiday," said Chinese furniture brand Stellar Works.

"However, the Stellar Works factory has now reopened, and we aim to be at 80-90 per cent productivity by the middle of March," the brand said. "We are currently reviewing all orders and are updating customers on revised delivery dates where necessary. We are working hard to return to optimal production as soon as possible."

But elsewhere, factory employees have not returned to work, particularly those affected by the lockdown in Wuhan, where the virus was first detected in December last year. Many plants are still not working at full capacity.

Jens Risom is a name you may not recognize, but his designs have been influencing modern furniture design for decades. Born in Denmark and educated in the USA, Risom's designs have been shaped by his experiences as a diplomat, a musical performer, and a furniture designer. His work has been exhibited in museums and galleries around the world, and his influence can be seen in the work of many modern designers.

In Denmark, Risom was exposed to the avant-garde design of the 1930s, which had a profound impact on his work. He later moved to the USA, where he became involved in the design community and began to develop his own unique style. Risom's designs were characterized by their simplicity and functionality, and he was one of the first designers to incorporate modern materials like steel and glass into his furniture.

Risom's influence can be seen in the work of many modern designers, including Charles Eames and George Nelson. His designs have been reproduced and reissued many times, and his legacy continues to inspire new generations of designers.

The Eames lounge chair, for example, is a direct descendant of Risom's first lounge chair. The chair was designed in the 1950s, and its simplicity and functionality are reminiscent of Risom's work. The chair has been produced by several companies, and it continues to be a popular piece of furniture today.

Risom's work has been celebrated in museums around the world, and his influence can be seen in the work of many modern designers. His legacy continues to inspire new generations of designers, and his designs continue to be appreciated for their simplicity and functionality.

Described by the American journalist迅猛 American as one of a distinguished group of Danish modernists who sought to create timeless objects that would serve people and enhance their lives, Vilhelm Wohlert (1923–2007) had no time for the transient fads and fashions of his time. His approach was to search for the core of and at the same time embrace modern design.

Wohlert was born in 1923, each and every design from Stellar Works Boör designed Wohlert’s work, remaining among the key pieces from the 1960s. The studio is collaborating with artists and curators at the museum: the 40th anniversary of the Louisiana Museum of Modern Art this September — through which Wohlert’s work is presented. The company has since the early years, and originally designed for the museum a bamboo chair, a bamboo dining chair and a copper dining table (both below).

Wohlert’s native, Vindland, is an architect and designer at the Royal Danish Academy of Fine Arts, where one of his students was the Danish-born Danish architect and designer, who was a student and a close friend of Wohlert. Wohlert’s work at the Louisiana Museum of Modern Art is currently on display, and will be on display at the museum from now until September 9, 2020.

Wohlert had no time for novelty, focusing instead on creating timeless objects.

Made In China: 10 Trends Shaping The Country's Soft Power In Design

The ‘Made in China’ stereotype may have had a less than appealing connotation before, but that’s not the case anymore. Check out the top 10 trends shaping the country’s soft power of design.

BY DOMINIC HERZENSTURM • October 1, 2020

Visible in the luxury buildings by star architects, from Jack Ma’s gallery in Zaha Hadid’s Beijing, and in the proliferation of new museums, high-end hotels and other-worldly retail space, design and culture in China are now a growing way. On the ground, the swift rise of home-grown talent in notable, its creative landscape has also nurtured domestically in its last two decades.

Trend 2: Asian Sensibility

Refined and luxurious, understated luxury, quality furnishings and a desire for comfort and functionality from the bases of a more thoughtful approach to interior design. Attracted to a subtle, Oriental aesthetic and commitment to space and light, Chinese consumers are pushing for more artistic, contemporary designs that are accessible to all.

Yves Klein’s furniture brand Stellar Works is a case in point. The Japanese watching together East and West, heritage and modernity, as well as craft and industry in the brand’s Shanghai workshop.

Modernist design trends like Fritz Hansen and Hay, as well as domestic label Zanotta streamlined, Scandinavian and furniture and homeware collections are also gaining a large following among young urbanites.

Also garnering attention is the Six Senses Qing Cheng Mountain resort outside Chengdu that showcases its connection to nature with a clear, uncluttered, organic design. Much of its modern architecture, Chinese-style furniture to locally made, underpins its commitment to give back to the community.

Inspired by the picturesque mountains of Japan, the Yama series is a range of sleek, conical pendant lamps whose streamlined shapes lend themselves well to minimalist interiors. The series was unveiled as part of Shanghai-based Stellar Works’ first lighting collection, and created in collaboration with Space Copenhagen. “We try to be attentive and respond to the little ways these typologies evolve over time, how uses might morph or change, while also working towards the piece having a certain sculptural quality,” says Space Copenhagen on their lighting design.

Design practices Stellar Works and nendo are both known for fusing Asian aesthetics with minimalist cues across varying home decor and furnishings. Both companies have now come together for their first furniture collaboration encompassing three different collections: Blend, Frame and Kite.

Blend is a three-legged stool made of metal with a solid wood base and upholstered seat. What gives this item its elegant look is the sleek shape of the legs and seat-back. Kite is a modular armchair that features multiple, adjustable backrests. Conclusively, Frame is an L-shaped mirror system intended for different functions.

Frame can serve as a towel rack mounted on the wall or a free-standing floor mirror with built-in organizers for clothing or any other household items. In addition, the system can be enlarged and affixed with varying sized mirrors alongside towel bars and shelves.

Dans le contexte de haute qualité du mobilier contemporain, Nenda fait figure de tradition. Le studio a récemment mis en avant quatre nouvelles collections, dont quatre sont un ensemble original et innovant des designers Riccardo Bellofiore et Claudio Dondoli. Pas étonnant donc que les dirigeants de Stellar Works aient immédiatement décidé de travailler avec Nenda pour développer un nouveau design à leur collection 2020 qui, d'après le directeur artistique de Stellar Works, est parti d'un projet de mobilier pour les chaises de bureau de bureau, et a pu travailler avec les collections signées Nenda en plus de la création de deux nouveaux fauteuils pour Stellar Works.

Тренды 2020/2021: первая коллаборация Nendo x Stellar Works

Коллаборация — знаковая дизайнерская инициатива. Японская студия, основанная Ochis Kato, Nendo предложила свою коллекцию для Stellar Works. Запускаемая в Пномпене, с фабрик на Шанхай и креативным руководством в Копенгагене, коллекция Stellar Works стремится превзойти все на авторский подход к дизайну и на уникальное сочетание, оставляющееся впечатляющей, французской и японской культурах.
Dalla Cina per la Cina

Valentino Curci

Nei Paesi del Dragone cresce la fama di design. Una spinta importante anche per le aziende locali dell'arredo, che si evolvono verso uno stile internazionale. Lo raccontiamo Luca Nivotto, designer e art director di Zazuma, e Yuichirō Hori, fondatore di Stellar Works.

"Siamo sempre alla ricerca di talenti emergenti non solo dalla Cina ma da tutto il mondo. Ma per il prossimo futuro abbiamo scelto nomi conosciuti con l'idea di creare pezzi senza tempo. Per raggiungere l'obiettivo ci focalizziamo su elementi caratteristici, come i dettagli realizzati a mano. (Yuichirō Hori)"

A Functional Collection From Stellar Works is Designed for Short Rests

Designed by Japanese Firm nendo, Kite, a collection of armchairs from Stellar Works, flouts conventional armchair design.

by Catherine Shaw
October 1, 2020

Stellar Works' factory on the outskirts of Shanghai produces collections in collaboration with international designers, as well as bespoke pieces for hotels. Of its international roster of collaborators, founder Yuichirō Hori says: “We always look for creativity and practicality.” Among the brand’s launches this year are the arm-chair Kite, the stool Blend, and Frame, a modular system that can be augmented with mirrors or trays.

One of this year’s most intriguing furniture debuts is an armchair that seems to float all the conventions of armchairs. Kite, the brainchild of the Japanese studio nendo and created for Stellar Works, was designed to provide seating for short periods of time in confined spaces.
Stellar Works unveils latest collaboration with Nendo

As part of its 2020 collections launch, Stellar Works unveils its latest collaboration with globally renowned design studio Nendo on three distinct new collections: Blend, Flutter and Kico.

The three collections reflect Nendo’s design expertise and meticulous process together with Stellar Works’ expertise in craftsmanship to produce a characterful and functional collection of furniture and accessories.

Blend is a three-legged bar stool made from solid wood, frame and solid wood seat in walnut and oak, an upholstered seat is also available in leather and a selection of fabrics.

The main design feature of Blend is the formation of the logo, which is ‘folding away’ in the middle; a small right angle ‘transform’ transforms the direction of flow through the stool and how it is applied. Five variations of Blend are available, including seat stools, a version where the legs form part of the backrest.

Flutter is a compact armchair designed with commercial and hospitality spaces in mind, and in particular small spaces. There are numerous armchairs and sofas for hotels and lounges, but wellvc cloud design for narrow spaces such as corridors, office foyers and restaurants are in short supply. Creating the backrest as the arm to which the seat is adjacent results in a design that is less about defining not merely about looking against a great backdrop.

The backrest and seat are independent parts, with cushion and deep seat and low and high backs available for use in combination, according to the size of the space and degree of privacy viewed.

Stellar Works x David Rockwell – ‘The Valet Collection’

Craftsmanship & Highly Functional

With meticulous detail in 2020, Stellar Works achieved a milestone in furniture design by introducing their latest collection. The Valet Collection, a series of sleek, functional pieces designed by David Rockwell, combines form and function in a harmonious blend.

Home comforts

With people now spending more time at home, the DesignLounge showcase at World Expo Osaka building is focusing on home office goods, displaying major brands including Vitra from Switzerland and ScandinaviaNorth Saxony. Other venues, too, had their fair share of home designs to spruce up the home environment.

Stellar Works x Nendo

Venus: Overcoming Hills DASpace

This is the first time Shanghai based Stellar Works is showing its furniture in Japan, an event that coincides with the opening of its new Tokyo store in Roppongi Hills. Headed by Yukihisa Host, Stellar Works’ connections with first-rate designers has been consistent since its launch in 2017. This year, it debuts three new collections conceived by Oki Sato of Nendo, its first collaboration with the Japanese designer.

The Kiso series re-thinks the lobby armchair: into compact and minimal seating for small spaces. Gently tilted, the rounded seats encourage visitors to lean back into an adjustable back support cushion – the focus of the design. For a little extra privacy, half round tubular backs curve around the user. Modular in construction, the rounded seats, tubular backs and cushion supports also can be assembled in different combinations. Though Kiso was designed for commercial use, its compact nature makes it equally suitable for the home.

Nendo’s Blend stools and multipurpose Frame units both feature strong lines of black steel in seemingly simple yet functional designs. The unusual structure of the Blend stools’ split third leg not only gives it a little aesthetic flair, but also serves as a handy footrest, while the L-shaped customizable Frame can be hung on a wall horizontally as a shelf or towel rail, or used free standing as a mirror rest and clothing rack.

Stellar Works x Space Copenhagen

Signe Bindslev Hermann and Peter Bondgaard Rintze of Danish studio Space Copenhagen have created a new series of lamps for Shanghai-based furniture brand Stellar Works’ inaugural lighting collection. Named after the Japanese word for ‘haze’, the Haze lamps combine an elegant, floating opal glass shade with a slender matt powder-coated metal base. Available in multiple configurations, including floor, table or wall lamps and a pendant, Haze is a delicate piece with a distinctly industrial feel.

MUEBLE DOMÉSTICO

Cada vez más versátil y personalizado, el mobiliario doméstico se repone a los nuevos ritmos de vida que imponen las casas unisex y las nuevas formas de ocuparse de los espacios de trabajo y estudio. Un espacio que te haga sentir como en casa, como en el hotel, y que pueda ser un lugar fundamental. Decorar es el arte de conformar espacios, de crear escenarios que transformen la arquitectura y proporciones que convirtan a cualquier hogar en un lugar único, con sus formas, su textura, su color y su luz. Cerámica, madera, orgánicos, metal, cuero, fósforo... todos son materiales nobles, comestibles, asequibles y elegantes. Diseño expresivo, con el mobiliario como la piel de la escena, que lleva el estilo de cada uno y propone un nuevo guardarropario, un nuevo guardarrope.

7. Stickley Hyde Park Open Nightstand
AM: It’s really versatile. The open storage level immediately gives the collected look I strive for.
CR: The asymmetry makes this unique, and it’s such a nice construction.
26 x 16 x 28 in.; $1,845; stickley.com

8. D&G Studio Metacore Armoire
CR: Great twist on a classic design; it pairs in with an antique farm table.
AM: I adore this very vivid blue, reminiscent of Van Klint’s signature color.
22 x 23 x 63 in.; $1,480; sammadisalza.com

5. Pinch Christo Four-Poster Bed
AM: How fun is this bed? Natural wood makes canopy—wish I had.
CR: The sculpted headboard is great; I want to see it in a white oak.
15 x 15 x 78 in.; price upon request; pinchdesigns.com

6. Stellar Works Wahlert Pianist Chair
CR: I picture this piece sitting in the corner of a bedroom.
AM: This chair absolutely works to be in Dan Draper’s office.
19 x 18 x 30 in.; $179; stellarworks.com

9. Roanes Triple Bench
AM: I would love this under an oversized abstract piece of art.
CR: Holistic sheepskin throws across it would add a little drama.
19 x 14 x 24 in.; price upon request; dundraper.com

10. Fern NYC Dorset Cupboard
CR: I like the use of color; the functionality makes it easy to place.
AM: Perfect for a renovated country house.

HAPPY AS A CLAM
GARDEN for the PLANET

With the arrival of spring 2021, we can begin to plan our gardens and outdoor spaces. This season, let's focus on creating a sustainable and eco-friendly garden. Here are some tips for a green and healthy garden:

1. Reduce Water Usage: Use drought-resistant plants and water-efficient irrigation systems.
2. Compost: Create your own compost from kitchen scraps and yard waste. This helps reduce waste and enriches the soil.
3. Use Native Plants: Choose plants that are native to your region. They require less water and are more resilient to local conditions.
4. Save Seeds: Save seeds from your favorite flowers and vegetables to plant next season.

All the right angles

"If you don't want to see weeds, you need to be very strict with your garden," says landscape designer Vicente Wolf. "But if you want to have a garden that is more natural, then you need to be more relaxed. It's all about finding the right balance."
Part of German interior designer Fella Schönfelder’s award-winning House knoll collection, this graceful table is designed in Berlin. For this exclusive edition of the iconic armchair sits a seamless brass, jumping balance.

A design by brothers Glenn and Guardino. Their XYZ table, made from steel and brass, is a lightweight, versatile fixture for the bedhead. For each piece, they leave a rimming ring in a material often found in the making of tables, mirrors, or other ornaments. www.gxg.com.

IT’S DHALAL
Stellar Works debuted Space Invaders, its first collaboration with multidisciplinary designer Luca Nichetto at Three Days of Design (TDD) in September. Luminous Harano beads, solid wood, and minimal metal frames are combined to create Space Invaders, which includes the Dhala Table and floor lamps merge functionality with quality of materials and craftsmanship. On a metal frame, the lamps feature a series of colorful Harano glass beads, in a variety of different finishes that create an original modular design with stacked elements, while a hidden LED stage gives a warm glow from within the beads.

HOST

Stellar Works has unveiled HOST, its first collaboration with German designer Sebastian Herkner. Known for his unusual shapes and material choices, Herkner has designed a mobile wardrobe created in response to the growing need for flexible furniture in both homes and hotels. Herkner’s design features a metal frame that on one side provides generous rail space, and also becomes part of the framework for open shelving and a mirror. HOST is partially on wheels to allow flexibility of movement as space requirements change. The rail’s minimalistic steel frame is also complemented by a veneer laminate base, solid wood and a large mirror.

Mum

The Mum rechargeable lantern belongs to the first lighting collection by Stellar Works and joins a range of floor lamps, a desk lamp and pendant lights. Designed by OEO Studio, the lanterns draw inspiration from analogue experiences and the poetry of rituals with a minimalist feel. The product is fitted with a sturdy silicone strap that makes it easy and flexible to use around the home and garden, either as a table centrepiece for outdoor gatherings and picnics, or hung on the wall for a diffused glow. Like many of Stellar Works’ pieces, Mum evokes Asian design sensibilities with a timeless aesthetic, targeting both consumer and contract markets.

Stellar Works: A Nichetto Studio Design and a New Flagship in NYC

By Archived Magazine

Stellar Works launched its new Space Invaders collection designed by Nichetto Studio at the 3Day/Design event in Copenhagen last month. Following its first collaboration with multitalented designer Luca Nichetto, the company also announced a new flagship opening in NYC.

Shanghai-based furniture design brand Stellar Works compiles its first collaboration with celebrated Italian designer Luca Nichetto, launching the Space Invaders collection at 3Day/Design in Copenhagen, and recently announced the opening of its flagship in New York City.

Space Invaders is an eclectic collection of functional yet playful objects such as luminous Murano beads, splayed-sided and minimalistic metal frames, able to “invade” a variety of environments. The collection includes the Ortha table and floor lamps, the Hoku integrated table lamp with the lunar and Kuuki trays.

The Ortha floor lamp is made with a minimal metal frame and features a series of colorful Murano glass beads with hidden LED strips that create a warm glow within the beads. It has a variety of finishes, optional legs and both cable and rechargeable versions.

The bold Hoku is a small table with an integrated lamp. Hoku comprises a minimalist circular base supported by discreet legs connected to a symmetrical tabletop by a side column, creating a solid “invaded” by a Murano glass shade. With hidden LED strips, it adds the functionality of a lamp, making Hoku a small table lamp, a timeless and surprising object enriched by its high-quality craftsmanship.

The pops-like Lunar tray features two circular plates with relief edges that are joined at the center. The trays come in different colors and can be stacked to create a delightful element to the room.

Main Rechargeable Lantern by Stellar Works

The Shanghai-based manufacturer Stellar Works has recently launched Mio, a portable lantern designed by the Danish ORO Studio, adding to the brand’s series of elegant outdoor furniture. The Mio rechargeable lantern belongs to the first lighting collection launched by Stellar Works and draws inspiration from analog experiences and rituals, such as playing vinyl on a record player or taking pictures with a camera. The lantern is fitted with a sturdy silicon strap that makes it easy and flexible to use around the home and garden, either used as a table centerpiece for outdoor gatherings or picnics, or hung on the wall for a diffused glow.

The collection of sculptures evokes movement and energy, mimicking the shape of Clooney’s iconic interior designs. The design is inspired by the cosmos and the history of the universe.

Space Invaders is a perfect example of niche and contemporary design, evoking the beauty of the cosmos. The sculpture captures the essence of a holiday, emphasizing the aesthetics and function of Fallen Leaves, a key point in the history of the universe.
The Outdoor According to Stellar Works

The collection designed by Stellar Works is full of driver and profiles.

MAR 2021 - Stellar Works presents its new collection "Space Invaders" for setting up the areas.

The design studio has recently launched "Space Invaders" a groundbreaking and innovative design of Stellar Works. The collection of "Space Invaders" is the result of the collaboration between Stellar Works and Italian designer Luca Nichetto. The collection is inspired by the works of the Italian designer, who has been associated with Stellar Works for several years.

The "Space Invaders" collection consists of three different pieces: the "Invader" floor lamp, the "Invader" table lamp, and the "Invader" wall lamp. Each piece is designed to be used both indoors and outdoors, and is suitable for various settings.

The "Invader" floor lamp is a striking piece that features a lampshade made of a metallic frame and a fabric shade. The lamp is equipped with a dimmer switch and is suitable for use in a variety of settings, from a living room to an office.

The "Invader" table lamp is a smaller version of the floor lamp, and is perfect for use on a bedside table or a desk. It features a similar design to the floor lamp, with a metallic frame and a fabric shade.

The "Invader" wall lamp is a modern piece that is perfect for adding a touch of style to any wall. It features a metallic frame and a fabric shade, and is equipped with a dimmer switch.

Luca Nichetto has designed the "Space Invaders" collection for Stellar Works, comprising three pieces. The lamps are available in different colors, and are suitable for use both indoors and outdoors.

The collection is inspired by the works of the Italian designer, who has been associated with Stellar Works for several years. The "Space Invaders" collection is a remarkable achievement for Stellar Works, and is sure to be popular among design enthusiasts.

Stellar Works ups its product collaborations

As an ardent brand, Stellar Works has unveiled its first collaboration with German designer Sebastian Herkner. Known for his unique shapes and natural influences, Herkner has created a smart movable wardrobe created in response to the growing need for flexible furniture in both homes and hospitality environments. Herkner’s design includes sliding doors that provide extra space, and also becomes part of the frame when used for open shelving and a mirror.

Heard placed partially on wheels to allow greater freedom in reconfiguring the space around the room as space requirements change. The openness of the design allows the wardrobe to be used for a multitude of purposes, with an added metal tray for personal items such as jewelry and watches. For smaller rooms, the wardrobe features enough space for a sofa and generous hanging space.

The initial metal frame is complemented by a rich finish, solid wood, and a lacquered finish.

NICHETTO STUDIO AT 3 DAYS OF DESIGN

September 2021

Leading contemporary furniture brand Stellar Works has unveiled its first collaboration with renowned Italian designer Luca Nichetto at Three Days of Design (3D), which takes place from 16th – 18th September. The Space Invaders collection will be showcased at the Nine United showroom. Alongside Space Invaders, Stellar Works will showcase the Past sofa system by Michele Di Lucchi, the Host floor lamp by Sebastian Herkner, and the Everyday light by Formafantasma, all of which were launched earlier this year but will be shown to the public for the first time.

Space Invaders is an eclectic collection of functional objects with a bold character. Luminous Murano beads, solid wood, and minimal metal frames are combined to create a playful group of timeless design objects, with “Invader’s” variety of environments. The collection includes the Dharma table and floor lamp, the Lima swivel table and lamp and the Lamar and Kaila toys.

With the same playfulness that characterizes each piece in the Space Invaders collection, the Dharma table and floor lamps merge functionality with quality of materials and craftsmanship. Supported by a minimal metal frame, the lamps feature a series of colourful Murano glass beads in a variety of different finishes that create an original modern design with abstract elements, while a hidden LED lamp gives a warm glow from within the beads. With optional legs and both table and reconfigurable versions available, the Dharma lamp is a versatile and playful design for a multitude of environments.
De comeback van de persoonlijke ruimte

Decennialang was verhuizen min of meer synoniem voor: haal alle binnenmuren weg. Open hulpen wilden we, met ruimtes die in elkaar overloopen, maar daar komen we nu stilaan van terug. Omdat we dromen van meer rust en privacy, maar ook omdat de rommel ons rusteloos maakt.

La sedia Ming di Neri & Hu per Stellar Works è la perfetta espressione di un territorio che considera povero, antico, preservato il gesto di abbandono. Attraverso la semplicità del pensiero, il caso del design cinese ha rimesso le arti decorative storiche della Cina a nuova uno stile di arredamento contemporaneo. Così di più concreto e iconico, tutto assunto a intrecciare ai modelli ornamentali definitivamente moderni. Il risultato di forma e materialità a una sedia imbottita in legno, che si inseriscano con eleganza nell'ambiente diurno dal gusto orientale e rendono un'ombra al conforto fisico, all'ombra.

STELLAR WORKS

When Yuichi Horii founded Stellar Works in 2012, he had the simple goal of bringing together East and West, heritage and modernity, craft and industry. “Our aim was to inspire a renaissance in Asian aesthetics,” says Horii. The furniture collection—which includes designs from internationally renowned luminaries, including Vefa Panahbeg, Space Copenhagen, Jens Risom, and Noritake Ho—illustrates this sentiment beautifully, and is proudly handmade in Shanghai (as opposed to the more generic “Made in China” label), where the company has a factory focused on transparent sourcing and manufacturing, and a demonstrable commitment to sustainability. Speaking about the product and the brand’s bicultural ethos, Horii adds, “We have chosen this path between the old and the new because I believe good design is timeless design.”

Mün Lighting Collection, the bundle of lamps signed off by Ooa Studio for Stellar Works, combines the sensibility of Asian design with a timeless aesthetic as the synthesis of form and function. Employing cutting-edge technologies and the poetry of Asia, the studio based in Copenhagen in 2003 by Thomas Volther and Anne-Marie Krammer has designed a colorful collection inspired by the traditional Japanese name for “moon”, including a table lamp, two floor lamp and a murano glass lamps that can be used both indoors and outdoors.

Shanghai via Milan: creating furniture where craft meets mass production

Michele De Lucchi and other designers are collaborating with a Chinese company to make mid-range, accessible pieces.

The thing is, while every stick of furniture, wall finish and fitting in my home amply pleases me, it is a need for silence that makes me take refuge. It’s not so much a complete absence of sound as no additional artificial noise, like a radio, TV or Nintendo buzzing in the background. Birdsong, clocks and traffic are fine. And this isn’t just a personal foible. Various medical studies have shown that silence encourages new brain cells to grow, specifically in the hippocampus, the region of our grey matter devoted to memory, emotion and learning. It also relates to the thorny (and intensely irritating) issue of being interrupted, a real bugbear of most regular workplaces. According to Gila Mark, professor in the Department of Informatics at the University of California, it takes 23 minutes and 15 seconds precisely to return to full focus after being distracted. As she puts it: “Attention-distraction can lead to higher stress, bad mood and lower productivity.” Quite.

As such, in my opinion, video conferencing was more a blunt tool of change than revolutionary enabler, as carefully constructed boundaries between the personal and professional were dismantled without our permission. We draw a line here for a reason. It allows us to drop in private the fronts we put on in public. Not to forget that scheduled, virtual interactions lack the manner, social cues and spontaneity that generally facilitate fulfilling, and therefore constructive, conversation.

4. Triangle Chair by Vilhelm Wohlert

Vilhelm Wohlert’s Triangle Chair has had a modern update with an outdoor version created by Stellar Works in aluminium with a Batyline sling. Although it was originally designed for visitors at the Louisiana Museum of Modern Art in Humlebæk, Denmark, this new version has magnified its use, not only indoors, but also outdoors. Wohlert’s pieces were some of the most celebrated in the 1950s, and the new edition is evidence of their relevance even today. The chair is meant for comfort – for users to sit back, relax and contemplate, maybe even while propping their feet up on the Triangle Ottoman.

Stellar Works opens in New York

The design of Stellar Works reaches Manhattan in a space of over 400 square meters on two levels. The opening celebrates the launch of the first collaboration between the Shanghai-based company and the designer Luca Nichetto.

Anna Castelli | 14 October 2021

Stellar Works, New York showroom

“We have strong ties in the United States, ever since the brand began collaborating on projects and collections of products with New York firms such as Yabu Pushelberg, Rockwell Group and AvroKO. We are very enthusiastic about taking our place in the center of the American design industry,” says Yuichi Hori, founder and CEO of Stellar Works, a company with headquarters in Shanghai that combines the excellence of traditional Asian crafts with modern production methods.

Shelving and bookcases provide order and subdivisions of spaces, as in the case of Selten by Stellar Works, a flexible modular storage system designed by OEO Studio. The product can be configured in two ways: against the wall, or as a freestanding room divider. In both cases, the design plays with the horizontal placement of shelves in walnut or oak, and the vertical presence of steel supports.

Designed by Wolfgang Tölk in 1993, with protruding shelves, the Load-it bookcase system is a Forro classic, presented in the new variant with steel shelves and wall panels in natural camento, alternating horizontal and vertical lines to create an intriguing pattern on the wall.

Agape also offers Cavaletto by Angelo Mangiarotti, a furnishing system entirely made in wood, whose characteristic module is a trestle with an overhanging V form that can support bookshelves or closed cabinets.

Johan van Hengel has designed Folded Shelves for Minuto, a metal system that imitates the look of folded paper and responds perfectly to the need for organization of objects used for work.

Constantly evolving, New York City takes on additional splendor with new works of architecture that transform the skyline, avant-garde landscaping, immersive exhibitions, design galleries and showrooms that reflect the energy of the city that never sleeps.

Anna Coccetti | December 2021

Discovered the new destinations in New York in just 24 hours is a titanic undertaking, taking you from one neighborhood to another: in the Flatiron District, graphic design buffs will find the Poster House museum, presenting the "The Post Pin Legacy" (until 6 February 2022), a voyage in the graphic revolution created by Seymour Chwast, Reynold Ruffins, Edward Sorel and Milton Glaser.

Nearby, the new showroom of DeMuro Das – the studio founded by Brian DeMuro and Pura Das – displays furnishings based on tradition, heritage and international inspirations. At Madison Avenue, Mood reveals the restyling of its space, prepared for the November edition of NYCxDesign, while Poliform, Roche Bobois, Natuzzi, B&B Italia, Blu Dot, Molteni&C, Minotti, DDC Damus Design Collection convey the quintessence of design culture.

A culinaire that extends to Seap and Tribeca, featuring the refinement of Poltoosa Piaza, the updated showroom of Tom Dixon, the lighting design of Foscarini, Artemide, Flos and Original BTC, the creations of Atelier de Troupe, Moroso, Kartell, MoMA Design Store and Society Limonta, the new treasure chest Made in France opened by Emblem Paris, the Brazilian heritage of Espasso, the opening of Stellar Works with Calico Wallpaper.

NYCxDesign 2022: Highlights From a Whirlwind New York Design Week

With collection releases, pop-up exhibitions, and topical designer talks, the citywide event had one of its strongest showings yet.

By Adrian Madlerner
May 14, 2022

The week started off with Bespoke Only's Vision & Voices panel discussion, hosted at the Stellar Works flagship in Tribeca. Coinciding with Asian American and Pacific Islander (AAPI) Heritage Month, the talk explored the nuances of identity and race within the design industry. Panelists included Tarig Dixon, founder of THINK NYC; Jean Lee, cofounder of Ladies & Gentlemen Studio; Andrea Hill, founder of Tortuga Forma; Melissa Lee, founder of Bespoke Only; as well as design writer William Li. The panel highlighted the opportunity for creatives to build inclusive environments—one that can help forge dialogues and unite AAPI designers amid the current state of anti-Asian aggressions. And to that end, on May 16, the Asian American Pacific Islander Design Alliance—an organization committed to mobilizing and empowering AAPI professionals in the home and design industries—hosted its first panel at the Schumacher showroom with speakers including Young Huh, Jean Liu, and Rosic Li, among others.
Stay Dining Table and Chair

Michele De Lucchi has recently curated the striking Stay collection for the diverse portfolio of Ravone-based Studio Stucky. The two-piece series consists of a dining table and chairs, each taking a sensitive approach to materials by eliminating any unnecessary detailing or accents.

The legs of the Bay chair mirror those on the table, giving the piece a strong visual character. Though narrow, the legs are cushioned upon a central and wide seat covered in white wool.

Available for use in both residential and commercial settings, the Stay collection is available in oak (natural, black, dark brown or grey finishes) or walnut (oil-natural or soap finish).

SHOWROOM SPOTLIGHT: STELLAR WORKS DEBUTS A NEW LOS ANGELES OUTPOST

Just a few months after opening a New York flagship, Shanghai-based design brand Stellar Works anchored its claim on the Soho's design scene with its February, the company debuted an nouveau showroom in Los Angeles located at 920 N. Pico Boulevard. Situated between the city's Koreatown and Downton neighborhoods, the former space—on a sun-drenched building was remodeled by August Architecture, the firm now sharing the space with Stellar Works.

Powerhouse Women in Architecture and Design Gather to Celebrate Women’s History Month with Cultured, Stellar Works and Ruinart

On March 28, Cultured hosted a private breakfast at Ruinart’s new diorama in Chelsea, New York in celebration of Women’s History Month. Alongside Cultured’s Editor-in-Chief, Emily Martin, some other influential women and men joined to discuss an ever-growing list of inspiring women designers and architects. The event was a chance to celebrate the achievements of women in design and architecture, and to highlight the many talented women who are shaping the future of the industry.

The event was attended by a number of notable women in the design and architecture fields. Among the attendees were New York-based architect, Deanna Van Buren; interior designer, Holly Hunt; and fashion designer, Prabal Gurung. The guests were treated to a breakfast hosted by Ruinart, which is known for its high-quality champagne.

Ruinart is a champagne producer located in the village of Ay, France. The company has a long history of producing some of the world’s finest wines, and is known for its commitment to sustainability. Ruinart is the proud sponsor of the Women in Design Award, which recognizes the achievements of women in the design industry.

The event was hosted by Cultured, a magazine that focuses on the intersection of art, design, and culture. The magazine is published by Stellar Works, a design and architecture firm based in New York. Stellar Works is known for its innovative approach to design and its commitment to sustainability.

The event was a chance to celebrate the achievements of women in design and architecture, and to highlight the many talented women who are shaping the future of the industry. It was a chance to honor the successes of every woman at the table.

Yuichiro Hori – We bridge the gap between East and West, old and new

As part of designerati's Around the World interview series, we speak exclusively to Yuichiro Hori, founder of Stellar Works, the contemporary furniture design brand. He tells us about his passion for collecting vintage furniture, how he founded Stellar Works, and how his cultural influences have guided him throughout his career.

Thus about growing up – i grew up with my childhood experiences, environment, and cultural influences shaping me into a designer. I was born into a family of artists and creators, so it felt natural to pursue a career in design. My mother is a painter, teacher and former president of de Gournay, a decorative art engineering firm. My father is a calligrapher and has published many books on the subject. My grandparents were also gifted painters. They taught me how to draw at an early age, and at school, i studied with famous artists and designers. My sister is also a painter, and my father is a photographer, so it's no surprise i ended up in the design business.

Stellar Works - Space Invaders

Delle particolari silhouette quasi immotricolte, la serie di Luca Nichetto disegnata per Stellar Works, che comprende le lampade da tavolo e da terra Volta, i tavolini con Led integrato Hobo e i tavoli Limone e Baflo, non è il caso che si chiami Spazio Invadere. Sfere in vetro di Murano, supporti metallici e volumi in ceramica e legno si intrecciano insieme per invadere lo spazio, appunto, secondo giustapposizioni cromatiche e materiche invente. Le strutture giocose abbracciano alla magia della trasparenza popolano le stanze in modo libero, dimostrando come la bellezza non escluda la funzione.

Stay, disegnato da Michele De Lucchi per Stellar Works

Nel disegnare il tavolo Stay per il brand asiatico Stellar Works, Michele De Lucchi ha voluto che esprimesse sensibilità per la natura. “In questo momento, in cui siamo consapevoli dell’emergenza climatica e della necessità di cambiare i nostri comportamenti – racconta il progettista – il legno è ancora nel suo splendore e fa sognare tutto il mondo. Anche scolpito il legno, perché è un materiale che ben si presta alla nostra capacità di creare con le nostre mani oggetti sempre diversi, che è ciò che ci distingue come esseri umani. Ho pensato che sarebbe fantastico creare una collezione scolpita nel legno per Stellar Works, che esprima la sensibilità edernia per il pianeta con una bensì rinnovabile, il legno non produrre mai rifiuti”. Stay è costituito da quattro elementi in legno che si uniscono senza soluzione di continuità al centro formando un raffinato disegno da berluti ammirant. Le gambe si staccano riconduciendo un albero e garantendo stabilità, ed il piano remoto è disponibile in tutte le finiture in legno standard delle collezioni firmate Stellar Works.

Le meilleur du style japonais

En matière de design et de décoration, le rayonnement nippon semble à son comble. Si tout le monde parle de la tendance Japandi – cette fusion entre le style scandinave et l’esprit zen –, la culture japonaise influence également de grandes marques françaises et italiennes de l’ameublement. Cette tendance est devenue incontournable. Pourquoi et comment.

Stellar Works

On Canal Street in New York, the two-story Stellar Works showroom serves as the brand’s global flagship, as well as its first brick-and-mortar space in the U.S. “Stellar Works has a very refined, Japanese meets Scandinavian aesthetic,” says design director David Bendel. “The brand’s US managing director Andrew Yang, Stellar Works shares the space with Caruso Wallpapers, and “as a showroom for two distinguished brands, we wanted the space to allow the work to be presented in an approachable, harmonious, and adaptable manner,” says Bendel.

The first is the main entrance for Stellar Works’ collections, and the second is designed as an experimental space for design partnerships, which rotate on a regular basis. “With two street frontages, it was paramount that everything be exposed yet in service of the display; raised windows/altars,Often platforms for furniture, which guide visitors into the space from either side (irregularly shaped existing walls were filled with a wallpaper display cabinet) and immovable express stairways and doors are made into opportunity for wall display and wallpaper, respectively,” explains Bendel.

15. SPACE-AGE TABLE LAMPS

Like a scion from the Dazzler series in Star Wars, these space-age table lamps command attention and create a striking focal point. The sheer amount of elements (transparent, circular, vertical, and stacked) gives them a unique character and makes them a stylish choice for any home. Especially suitable for living rooms and dining areas, these lamps add a modern touch to any interior, offering a captivating and unique decorative solution.

Kevin Litherland is a designer and a passionate light enthusiast. His design philosophy revolves around the idea of transforming spaces into luminous sanctuaries, where light is not just a functional element, but a crucial part of the overall design concept.

“Upheld in the world of lighting, the focus is on creating a unique experience for the viewer. With every piece, we aim to challenge the conventional and push the boundaries of what is possible.”

FOUNDER AND CEO OF STELLAR WORKS, YUICHiro Hori HAS CREATED A TRUE CROSS-CULTURAL FORCE IN FURNITURE DESIGN WITH ASIAN SENSIBILITY AT ITS CORE

It's rare to find a brand that is so intimately connected not only to the essence of what it does but also to its origins from Asia.

As the founder and CEO of Stellar Works, Yuichiro Hori has established a challenging presence for the past decade. From the beginning, his mission was to establish a new brand Stellar Works stands for a combination of fine craftsmanship and Asian sensibilities, inspired by the long-standing craft and industry of traditional cultures. It represents a commitment to bridging the gap between old and new. Each piece is contemporary, formed in collaboration. Dripping creative tension by the design of Yuichiro Hori and Bernard He, the brand seeks to introduce past collections of Japanese, also being deeply inspired by European influences. It embraces Western culture and global innovation with enduring craftsmanship. We were thrilled to discover these unique voices, which are the heroes for this compelling trend.
Leading Indian furniture brand Stellar Works has recently partnered with renowned Danish architects and designers, Michele De Lucchi and his award-winning practice, Studio. The collaboration by the celebrated designer features a range of furniture that is organic and adaptable. The pieces are designed to have a sustainable and authentic character, with De Lucchi stating, "I thought it would be fantastic to create a collection that we would want to live with for a long time. It's about expressing today's sensitivity towards nature and culture, and having an emotional identity for the piece."

Stay: A nature-inspired collection by Michele De Lucchi x Stellar Works

"By working closely with Michele, we are able to create a collection that truly reflects our vision for sustainable design," says Srikant Kataria, CEO of Stellar Works. "We are excited to partner with such a talented designer to bring to life a collection of furniture that is not only beautiful but also environmentally friendly."

The Stay collection by De Lucchi and Stellar Works includes a range of furniture pieces such as the Atelier sofa, the Journey chair, and the Studio table. Each piece is designed to be sustainable and eco-friendly, with a focus on functionality and aesthetics. The collection is a celebration of the designer's philosophy of creating timeless pieces that are both beautiful and functional.

Bassam Fellows at Stellarworks

Flat-packed furniture usually gets a bad rap, but certainly not in the case of Bassam Fellows’ latest design for the Asian furniture brand, Stellar Works. Nodding to cafe chairs of mid-19th century Vienna and the cafe culture of Shanghai in the 1920s, the American design studio has unveiled Pagoda—a collection of chairs that mixes comfort with efficiency. Reduced to the essentials, each chair is comprised of just six components, a curved seat, a rounded back and four legs. The seat, in particular, draws from the idea of ‘wenzen’ in Chinese culture, while its arched arms add a nod to reference pagoda gates while imbuing the chair with an underlying shape.

Where to Wine and Dine

2023 hasn’t disappointed with a new crop of hyped New York eateries and lounges to try out. With that in mind, making reservations ahead of time is essential. A short stroll from the Javits Center, the Ritz Carlton Nomad’s recently opened Zaytinya will provide with Mediterranean fare in abundance—enough to sustain an afternoon of touring downtown storefronts. Revelle Luncheonette is a new offshoot of beloved brasserie Revel’s, perfect for those visiting SoHo. Swan Room and Le Dive in micro-neighborhood Times Square have become local favorites and will serve as good venues for end-of-day libations. Headed to Brooklyn? Milanese-inspired Saraghina Caffè in Fort Greene and Bar Americana in Greenpoint are musts.

Brands and designers are getting increasingly clever in how they present themselves IRL. San Francisco-based Rapt Studio and Swiss photographer David Shama, for instance, are opening Do Not Feed Alligators, a part cafe, part bookshop, part cocktail-and-wine bar in the West Village. Celebrating the renewal of SoHo and Tribeca as design destinations, leading brands Ororí, Bocci, Roll & Hill, Calico Wallpaper, Stellar Works, Atelier de Troupe, and Henrybuilt have teamed up to host an open-to-the-public Block Party on Friday, May 19, from 6–9 pm. The outdoor festivities will take place on Mercer Street between Grand and Canal.

Showroom Spotlights

So much of New York Design Week’s offering takes place in the city’s diverse crop of storefronts. Brands historically have selected spaces downtown in SoHo and Tribeca, but today you’ll find an equal presence in Nomad and even the Upper East Side.

At its Tribeca flagship, Stellar Works is partnering with tech giant Sony on an immersive installation. Though details are still under wraps, the Showroom experience is said to be “a surreal reality.” Sharing the same space, Calico Wallpaper will launch its Verde collection developed with Roll & Hill founder Jason Miller.

STAYDREAM

Sony and furniture brand Stellar Works will collaborate to present ‘STAYDREAM — a surreal reality’ during NYCxDESIGN. Stellar Works will team up with Sony Design to showcase a series of conceptual pieces in an immersive environment that blends space, furniture, and technology to create a sensory and storytelling experience. The exhibition will focus on bringing the outdoors inside by highlighting the ambience of nature within interior spaces. This project aims to convey and unveil new forms of user experience, sensing techniques and human interaction, exemplifying the coexistence of physical and meta realities,’ writes the team.

The exhibition will be held at Stellar Works’ New York showroom at 304 Canal Street from May 18th — 25th.

SONY and stellar works bring nature indoors with an oasis installation STAYDREAM

DISCOVER ‘STAYDREAM — A SURREAL REALITY’

Away from the noise of New York’s bustling Canal Street, furniture brand Stellar Works stages a ‘surreal reality’ known as STAYDREAM in collaboration with the designers at Sony’s Creative Center. The installation debuted in time for NYCxDESIGN, and demonstrates a series of new ways that visitors can interact with interfaces, harnessing design and technology to ‘bring elements of the outside to indoors.’

The event showcases Stellar Works’ new conceptual furniture collection which integrates Sony expertise to bring each piece to life with visual and auditory elements. Luminous graphic projections are designed to transform custom Calico wallpaper, while room dividers subtly emit ambient sounds or light art. Meanwhile, a chandelier takes shape as a cluster of floating lights which together react to viewers’ movements and sounds, their energy informing the atmosphere of the room. All these responsive technologies accumulate with a bedroom — the finale of the installation — which envelops the visitor in soft sounds of nature and calming visuals.

To discover more about the collaboration, designboom interviewed with Hirohata Takas, Head of Sony's Design Center Europe, and Daisuke Ishii, Head of Sony's Creative Center. Spanning two levels of the Stellar Works showroom on 304 Canal Street, the installation was open to the public until 6:00pm on May 25th, 2023.
This week, New York’s design week returns for another iteration. Here, we have rounded up key shows, talks and installations put on by organisations and brands including NASA, MaXi and the Female Design Council.

The design week in New York City begins this week, with events and programming oriented around institutions such as the NYCD Design Festival and the International Contemporary Furniture Fair (ICFF).

Hundreds of galleries, showrooms, schools and cultural institutions have planned programming for the week, from talks to the release of special collections.

Most of the events and programming take place in brand showrooms and at institutions throughout the city, from Brooklyn to Hudson Yards and beyond.

However, there are a few clusters where visitors can see many things at once, such as design districts in Soho and around the New York Design Center in Manhattan, as well as Brooklyn Navy Yard and Industry City in Brooklyn.

Design platform WantedDesign Manhattan will return as part of ICFF at the Javits Center, while furniture brand Stellar Works will partner with electronics company Sony for a large-scale installation in its showroom.

Keep reading for Dezeen’s picks on what to do and see during New York design week.

Sociable sofas

Here’s one trend likely to last well into the autumn and perhaps into the foreseeable future – sofas for social animals. It’s perhaps not surprising that some designers are focusing on seating that encourages social interaction as a much-needed antidote to the enforced isolation many suffered during the pandemic. This thought is resulting in new alternatives to conventional rectangular sofas. Of course, designers often successfully experimented with free-form modular sofas in the 1960s and 1970s, creating sofas that could be reconfigured in a multitude of ways. A recent development of this is the crescent-shaped or curved sofa that is conducive to socialising since it makes it easier for people sitting together on it to face each other and chat.

Vank Pudlicsberg designed the Taylor sofa for Stellar Works

London design empire Heal’s has long championed the work of young designers, including Lucy Kurrein, now an undisputed queen of the innovative or unusual sofa. Her Isola sofa and accompanying large ottoman, both inspired by the organic contours of coastlines or islands, are ergonomically appealing and lend themselves to socialising.

‘Freja’ bench, Stellar Works

Perfectly expressing the Japandi aesthetic that fuses the best of Japanese style with Scandinavian furniture making traditions, this elegant bench is part of Space Copenhagen’s ‘Freja’ series. The gently curved seat – in leather or woven paper – appears to float lightly over subtly angled legs, creating an understated sculptural form. £1,690, stellarworks.com

In 2018, Sony proposed a world with invisible technology. The Hibles Series exhibition, which was held during Milan Design Week that year, included a candle holder that doubled as a light switch, a stone-like object that could change the volume of a nearby speaker when moved, and a bird sculpture whose shadow took flight when you grazed it with your finger.

The exhibition provided an intriguing design-first alternative to the smart home, where screens and dashboard were replaced with discreet technology that blend into your home. The objects on display were conceptual and only intended as conversation starters, but the underlying idea—that technology can be built into pretty much anything—is now one step closer to reality.

The Best of New York Design Week 2023, Part II
by The Editors

At the beginning of this month’s New York design mania — somewhere between Sight Unseen’s two installs and after we’d been out at parties for three days in a row — I joked that while I’ve complained in the past that New York Design Week was too drawn out (it ballooned to nearly a month last year), this year felt too compressed, a kind of karmic retribution for my grumbling. How could we possibly see everything, and so close to Milan when we’d just gone through the same routine? But perhaps that sense of urgency was exactly what New York needed. (And, in truth, the “weak” stretched to almost two.) Because somewhere along the way, I realized I was having a significant amount of fun. Last year, we all agreed that “New York Design Week was back,” etc. etc., and we saw wonderful work in beautiful locations. But this year something else returned to the city. New York got a little weird again — a word we haven’t heard used to describe much around these parts lately.

There were art openings and card games at Egg Collective. There were bizarre, charmingly ramshackle exhibition locations, like the recently abandoned ice cream shop where Astreaus Clarke launched its new collection and group show; the disused neoclassical Chinatown building where Manta and Catalog Sale mounted an exhibition of 24 historic and contemporary ad-hoc chairs; and a 19th-century former bank building in Williamsburg — featuring a cruise ship-like bathroom and a hoarders’ paradise fine market on the ground floor — where Bowew and Ana Kras previewed their new mirror collaboration. There were bedazzled Le Cristo cans and bejeweled can openers. Throughout the week, there were many, many fog machines.

STAYDREAM at Stellar Works (Jonathan Hokklo)

STAYDREAM: a surreal reality is a collaboration between two Japanese companies: furnishings manufacturer Stellar Works and tech giant Sony. The experiential exhibition has taken over the ground floor and basement of the Stellar Works showroom in the form of seven distinct “experience zones.” Each zone will showcase a different collaborative product between the two brands, while also contributing to the overall intention of the exhibition to digitally bring the outdoors inside. Traditional Japanese screens, Byōbu, have been reworked into high tech room dividers that will change the environment as the viewer moves through the experience.

Stellar Works Showroom in Kyoto in Partnership with Hosoo

The House of Hosoo and Stellar Works put forward their passion for craft and tradition in a stunning showroom in Kyoto. Located in a traditional Japanese family house, the space reveals a unique collaboration between these two distinctive brands.

The show room is housed in a 230-year old Machiya townhouse, what was once used as a traditional family house. Hosoo was using it as a warehouse space and Stellar Works CEO Yukhiro Hori pitched the idea to Hosoo to transform the townhouse, seeing the potential in making a showroom that would highlight the two brands in a special way.

OEO Studio and Stellar Works took care to respect the Machiya townhouse and its heritage as a family residence while highlighting the deep-rooted connection to craft in this city. Each room is its own mini-rooms, such as a seating room that features a Mandarin Dining Table by Neri & Hu, and a suite of low chairs designed by OEO Studio and covered in a specially selected range of blue and purple hued Hosoo fabrics: an intimate living room with semi-circular sofa and chairs by Takashi Sugawara, a beautiful cabinet designed by Neri & Hu with custom fabric interiors; and the Awa furniture collection designed by OEO Studio and launched at the NOA pop-up in Kyoto this spring. Other highlights include the Kyoto standing lamp with a rice paper lampshade made by hand by a traditional Japanese umbrella maker, and a selection of ceramic pieces from the Atta collection designed by Neri & Hu.
