SYNOPSIS

Chicks is a women-driven dramedy, with a local flavor and a very fresh visual style. The story is about four corner girls from a small town in Russia who decide to change their lives entirely, and to open their own fitness centre. The first couple of episodes are quite funny, while we follow the girls trying to open a business without any of the necessary skills. But the longer we watch it, the more we understand how difficult it is to be an uneducated woman in a small town, and how desperate they are to succeed.

SYNOPSIS

The year is 1941. Student cinematographers Lev Alperin and Ivan Maisky compete for academic excellence and for the heart of the beautiful student actress Yuna. As the war approaches Moscow, all three of them refuse to be evacuated and instead volunteer for the front line. Yuna signs up to the concert brigade, and Lev and Ivan become front-line cameramen. The young men's rivalry continues even off-campus, but the horrors of war and the heroism of Soviet soldiers that they witness transform their attitude towards their art and life in general. This allows them to film unique footage that will make history. The movie is inspired by the true story of the making of Moscow Strikes Back, a documentary film directed by Ilya Kopalin and Leonid Varlamov that was shot and produced in an unprecedentedly short timeframe. It won an Oscar for Best Documentary Feature at the 1943 Academy Award ceremony, the first such event ever to give awards for documentaries.

Russian soldier Ivan Shukhov returns to his homeland after spending time in a Nazi prison camp. Under Soviet law he is declared a traitor to the state and sentenced to ten years of forced labor in a Gulag as Prisoner S-854. Amidst the harsh snowy wilderness, Ivan and other prisoners are building a massive factory for the Soviet space program. Amazingly, despite all the injustice, hunger, humiliation and fear inherent to daily life in the labor camp, Ivan manages to maintain his best human qualities. Hard-working, honest and sincere, he possesses simple folk wisdom and unshakeable faith in miracles even after having to learn to survive on the brink of death. Now serving the last days of his sentence, will Ivan finally be set free? Will his dream of reuniting with his daughters come true? And, most importantly, will he stay true to himself when his fellow political prisoners give in to the crippling pressures of dehumanization behind the barbed wire?

The year is 1941. Nazi Germany has declared war on the USSR and begins launching air assaults on Moscow and St. Petersburg. Stalin immediately orders a retaliatory air campaign under the code name "Wings over Berlin". The closest entry point to Berlin from the USSR border was an airfield on the Estonian island Saaremaa in the Baltic Sea. It would be a 7-hour flight over enemy territory in outdated aircraft leaving no chance of survival for the tail crew members in case of attack.
