In all extending to 78.63 acres.

For sale by private treaty as a whole.

Carter Jonas

Location
The property forms part of an attractive wider country estate on the outskirts of Zelah, enjoying a superb balance of rural tranquillity and accessibility. The property is conveniently positioned for immediate access to the recently upgraded A30 and trunk road running alongside, giving excellent access to all parts of Cornwall as well as the wider south-west.

Mainline train services run from Truro direct to Plymouth, Exeter and London, including a sleeper train. National and international flights run from Newquay International Airport, approximately 15 miles away.

Closer to home, the farm is located few miles from Truro, the administrative heart of Cornwall which provides a wide range of professional services, employment, retail and leisure opportunities, alongside cultural activities driven by Truro Cathedral and the recently refurbished Hall for Cornwall. Truro provides a wide range of private and state schooling for all ages and is home to the Royal Cornwall Hospital at Treliske. Other major employment and business areas of the county, at Redruth and Bodmin, are a convenient drive along the A30.

Being located centrally within Cornwall, the property has excellent access to both north and south coasts, in particular the north coast being within 4 miles, a 10 minute drive via twisting country roads bordered by Cornish hedgebanks, allowing buyers to enjoy the vast range of outdoor and watersports activities Cornwall has to offer, from sailing and paddleboarding on the south coast, cycling and walking on the myriad of inland paths and moorland, through to surfing on the north coast.

This highly accessible yet peaceful setting makes Higher Ventongimps ideally placed for those seeking a rural lifestyle without compromising on convenience.

Farmhouse

The Grade II listed farmhouse offers beautifully presented and generously proportioned accommodation, combining an abundance of period character with a high-quality finish throughout. The farmhouse was completely renovated approximately 10 years ago, the interiors have been thoughtfully arranged to provide characterful reception space and comfortable family living, with 4 well-appointed bedrooms, including a very spacious principle bedroom with en-suite, and a natural flow between principal rooms. The property includes a two storey annex that is currently unconverted, but which benefits from consent for renovation to provide a 5th bedroom and further reception room.

These works might offer an ideal solution for multi-generational living, guest accommodation or a dedicated home office, all without compromising the overall balance of the house.

Externally, the property is complemented by attractive and well-proportioned garden areas, providing an excellent setting for outdoor entertaining and family use, together with ample parking to comfortably serve both the farmhouse and the wider holding. This includes a dilapidated barn positioned to the side of the farmhouse, set within its own defined garden area, giving scope for further redevelopment.

Further Dwellings

A particularly attractive feature of the holding is the two-storey traditional stone barn, which benefits from planning permission for conversion into a substantial residential dwelling (PA23/05302 – 06/09/2023).

The approved scheme offers an exciting opportunity to create a separate three-bedroom modern home with a swimming pool, ideal for multi-generational living, guest accommodation or potential income generation, subject to implementation.

The barn retains considerable character, with its traditional stone construction providing an appealing basis for a high-quality conversion in a desirable rural setting.

Buildings

The property benefits from an impressive and well-balanced range of traditional and modern buildings, offering exceptional versatility.

A particular highlight is the substantial barn incorporating 23 internal timber stables half of which are permanent and benefitting from concrete flooring, the others being on earth flooring that can be folded away to create an open barn for flexible use such as livestock or storage. This is complemented by additional traditional stone stabling, now converted into a kitchen and catering facility, and two outdoor arenas, including a floodlit 60m x 30m manège. These facilities provide an excellent foundation for private equestrian use, whilst not defining the holding as such, and may benefit from renovation and upgrade, having been unused since the Chyverton Estate Equestrian Centre closed in Autumn 2023.

Importantly, the buildings as a whole offer significant flexibility, with a combination of portal-framed barns, block-built stores and attractive stone structures well suited to a wide range of uses, including agricultural, commercial, storage or lifestyle purposes (subject to any necessary consents).

Off-lying from the core of the holding is Stamps Boiler House, a Grade II listed barn dating from the mining era of the area positioned adjacent to pasture land and with its own access, providing clear scope for development and renovation if the suitable consents can be obtained.

Land

The land extends in total to approximately 78.63 acres in total, comprising predominantly level and gently undulating pasture, bordered by mature hedgerows and trees giving protection and shelter, well-suited to grazing and general agricultural use. The holding is notably well-configured, with the majority of the land enveloping the main farmstead, providing excellent accessibility and ease of management. Access to much of the land is also available via a byway that runs through the northern part of the farm, ensuring the house and building area can remain private if required.

In addition, approximately 35 acres of further land and woodland positioned on the opposite side of a small country road is available by separate negotiation, which includes an equestrian cross-country course designed to British Eventing standards by Adrian Ditcham. Although now requiring renovation and refurbishment, the course historically featured a variety of fences including water jumps, together with areas of mature woodland across varying elevation offering significant potential for private or commercial equestrian or leisure use.
