Have you heard of Japanese Onsen?

Japan is now a dream destination for many reasons...Onsen is definitely one of them.Onsen has now become as iconic as Mt. Fuji, Sakura or Judo.Not exactly a spa, Onsen has its own unique culture and soul.It is known for its therapeutic and cosmetic properties and the best place to relax.The word 'Onsen' itself is not far from achieving world-wide recognition.

Kusatsu Onsen is one of the best known hot springs in Japan

Kusatsu Onsen is also a top-class Onsen Resort always close to the hearts of the Japanese people. We are working together to promote the appeal of this embodiment of Japanese hospitality to the world. Located on a plateau, Kusatsu-machi has many places to be seen such as distinctive volcanic landscapes and historical cultural assets that all add to its charm.

Sainokawara outdoor bath:

The largest outdoor bath in Kusatsu Onsen with a feeling of freedom surrounded by nature. Soak in the big bath and savour the magnificent scenery with its fresh green in spring and summer, crimson foliage in fall or white snow in winter.

Ohtaki-no-Yu:

Another day-trip spa where you can experience traditional Onsen bathing, bathe in the water with lower temperature and higher temperature gradually by turns.

Goza-no-Yu:

Facing the Yubatake (Onsen mineral farm), this is a replica of a wooden building said to have existed around the Edo to Meiji eras (1600s-1900s) open today for day-trip spa visitors. After bath, you can overlook Yubatake from the rest area in 2nd floor.

Otaki-no-Yu, Goza-no-Yu, and Sainokawara outdoor bath do not prohibit the entrance and bath of people with tattoos. Everyone is welcome to enjoy Kusatsu Onsen as long as the rules and manners are observed.

Kusatsu Onsen for beginners

The beautiful Kusatsu Onsen is number one among 3,000 or so Onsen in Japan according to a ranking.

Kusatsu has and will continue to represent the best Japanese Onsen can offer.

Although not easily accessible deep in the mountains, Kusatsu Onsen has been well-known for the wide-ranging properties of its waters from old days. In the Edo era (1600s to 1850) Onsen charts, Kusatsu Onsen dominated the top ranks, which naturally attracted even more visitors and led to growing business. Today, it still occupies the best positions in Onsen popularity.

rankings. The area is also extraordinary from the point of view of hot water volume and variety, with over 100 different quality sources springing up all around town. It has the largest natural hot water yield in Japan, with over 32,300 liters per minute, which amounts to 230,000 steel drums or more per day.

Kusatsu takes first place in the 32st selection of "Best 100 Onsen in Japan" marking its 16th consecutive victory (as announced by the Tourism and Economy Newspaper in 2018)

Kusatsu Onsen's symbol- Yubatake

Overwhelming in scale, this is the Onsen mineral farm, Yubatake

Located at the heart of Kusatsu Onsen, mineral farm is the symbol of Kusatsu and the most popular tourist spot in the area. Workings of dozens of aqueducts carry out the hot water while cooling it to as many ryokan (traditional inns). Yubatake is surrounded by ryokan, hotels, restaurants and souvenir shops for tourists' delight.

A one-of-a-kind Onsen visited by many shogun

It is a famous historical fact that Edo shoguns like Ieyasu (1st), Yoshimune (8th) and Ieharu (10th) had the hot water transported to Edo so that they could enjoy bathing in Kusatsu Onsen water. Many other lords, warlords and writers also visited Kusatsu Onsen. Yubatake seems to have started around 1850 when barrels were installed to collect Yu-no-hana (mineral deposits). Its name comes from Yu-no-hana and 'hatake' (farm), which combined make Yubatake.

National designated cultural property "Scenic Yubatake"

"On October 13, 2017, this landscape was recognized as a ""Scenic Spot"" by the Minister of Education, Culture, Sports, Science and Technology." A natural hot spring located at the center of the city is an unfamiliar sight in Japan, but it is proof of how the area developed around the Onsen gradually attracting people from all over the country, and the town's unique landscape and the hot spring culture were generated. The unique ambience created by the hot steam flowing over the rocky edges from the wooden pipes has been recognized as a symbol of the distinctive Kusatsu Onsen culture. Also, in Sep 2017, won the prize in Asia Townscape Award hosted by UN.

Our pursuit to provide an authentic Onsen experience

"Water quality first"

At Kusatsu Onsen, we maintain exceptional water quality. We provide fresh hot water from the source, made possible by the large natural spring volume. Our hot water is highly acidic, with excellent therapeutic properties. We are proud to be one of the oldest and among the top 3 best-known Onsen in Japan. We offer the ultimate Onsen experience.

Okumiage-no-yuwaku:

A square wooden frame sunk in the center of the Yubatake springs (Local important cultural property). This marks the site from where the three Tokugawa shoguns (Ieyasu, Yoshimune and Ieharu) had Kusatsu Onsen water loaded into barrels and transported to Edo Castle so that they could bathe in it, according to written documents.

Yu-momi and Jikan-yu

Jikan-yu is a traditional bathing method in Kusatsu inherited from the Edo period

What is Yu-momi?

At their source, Kusatsu Onsen waters are extremely hot, reaching 50°C in temperature and making it impossible to bathe in as is. However, simply adding cold water to lower the temperature would also affect the quality of the Onsen. So back in the old days, people devised a way to bring down the source temperature by using long wooden planks (180cm) to stir the hot water. Other benefits of 'Yu-momi' are giving the hot water a smoother quality and exercising slightly before taking a bath. Currently, you can watch Yu-momi in Netsunoyu as show.

What is Jikan-yu?

By the end of the Edo era (1860s), people had adopted Yu-momi and other bathing methods such as 'coordinated' bathing, which involved a large number of people all entering and exiting the bath at the same time while trying to create all little movement of the hot water as possible. In the Meiji era (from 1870s), a new bathing method called Jikan-yu (timed bathing) was adopted, by which people entered and exited the bath at times marked by the command of an Onsen Master. Jikan-yu begins with Yu-momi before entering the bath and also requires pouring hot water over your head over 30 times with a small water pail to prevent hot flashes. At the command of the Onsen Master, everyone enters the bath together and soaks in for 3 minutes. Then everyone exits the hot water at the exit command. This is repeated four times a day. Currently, you can watch Jikan-yu in "Chiyonoyu."

Four seasons at Kusatsu Onsen

Spring

Spring is the best time to see rhododendrons, the official town flower, and Japanese azaleas. Fresh green vegetation and colorful flowers stand out against the still snow-capped mountain peaks.

Summer

A cool breeze blows over the plateau at Kusatsu. The annual average temperature at Kusatsu Onsen is 7°C and 17.5°C in mid-summer (July through August) when temperatures rarely rise above 30°C. Summer is perfect for hiking and other outdoor activities.

Fall

Fall at Kusatsu is a tapestry of crimson and yellow. The contrast of vivid colors against the clear autumn sky creates a dazzling natural beauty that can heal the mind and body.

Winter

Completely covered in snow, Kusatsu becomes a monotone world in winter. With its frost-covered trees shimmering in the sunlight, winter nature offers its own delights to enjoy. For families, Kusatsu Onsen Ski Resort offers a fun Kids' Park.

Recommended tours

① Kousenji Temple Time required: 20 min.

The tour begins with a visit to Kousenji Temple

The Yakushi-Nyorai is the medicine and ailments Buddha ascetic enshrined in Onsen areas and it was believed that everyone can be pacified when entering an Onsen bath and pray. This belief continued until mid-Meiji era (1889-1904). The old Yakushi-do Temple used to stand where Kousenji Temple stands today. The Shaka-do (Buddha Temple) found on the grounds of Kousenji Temple is the oldest building in Kusatsu.

② Yubatake (Mineral deposit farm) Time required: 1-2 hours

The tour circles around Yubatake

See the Okumiage-no-yuwaku wooden frame and the stone that marks the place where Yoshimune, the 8th shogun, is said to have bathed. Also enjoy shopping and tasting various local foods at Kusatsu's many ryokan, hotels, restaurants or souvenir shops located around Yubatake. The tour includes two footbaths and the best location for taking pictures of Yudaki (Onsen waterfall). One hour will certainly feel too short for this tour offering everything from natural landscapes and shops, to culture, footbaths, and Yu-momi shows. At night, Yubatake is otherworldly. 365 days a year, from sunset to midnight, Yubatake lights up just for you. Don't miss Yubatake at night!

③ Sainokawara Street Time required: 1-2 hours

A walk along Sainokawara St.

This is the main street of Kusatsu, with lots of traditional Japanese sweets shops, souvenir stores and restaurants. Simply walking down the street does not take more than 10 minutes. However, if you try a bite of this and that, enjoy the scenery and have a look inside a few stores or have a leisurely lunch, one hour might not be enough.

Time required: 1 day

④ Sainokawara Park Time required: 30 min.

A walk through Sainokawara Park

Located west of Kusatsu Onsen, the park covers an area where hot springs spring out virtually from every corner. The hot steam rising from each of these springs forms the so-called Yu-kawa, or Onsen Steam River. Tradition says that demons live here and the place was feared as the Demons' Springs because of the view, so when you are here, you are not supposed to shout or scream, as that would attract the demons. Place names such as Demon's Teapot and Demons' Sumo Ring are today's reminders of the old tales. 365 days a year, from sunset to 24:00, Sainokawara Park is brightened up by beautiful lights. Sainokawara Park is a must see at night.

⑤ Sainokawara Outdoor Bath Time required: 30 min.- 1 hour

Relax at Sainokawara Outdoor Bath

The men's and women's baths together occupy an area of 500m², which makes this outdoor bath one of the biggest in Japan. Relax soaking in big bathtubs filled with hot water, surrounded by the forest, and forget all daily worries and stress. Feel the cool plateau breeze touching your skin. Enjoy the beauty of scenery that changes with every season- the fresh green of early summer, the crimson of fall or white of winter snow. Soaking in an outdoor bath at night is a unique experience too.
