Access rules and maps

Portland General Electric's Tucannon River Wind Farm is located on 20,000 acres of farm and rangeland north of Dayton, WA. The project's 116 wind turbines are located on private property PGE leases from landowners.

While some of this land is open to public access, special rules are in place to ensure the safety of visitors, hunters, local residents and wind farm workers. The enclosed rules are also designed to prevent damage to the wind farm's equipment.
