Acadia SOIL & WATER CONSERVATION DISTRICT

Located in the heart of Acadia Parish, the Acadia Soil and Water Conservation District (SWCD) continues to build on its legacy of service to the agricultural community through education, technical assistance, and innovative programming.

The district plays an active role in Louisiana's 319 Nonpoint Source (NPS) Pollution Reduction Program, part of the EPA's Section 319 Clean Water Act. This initiative focuses on improving water quality by promoting agricultural best management practices (BMPs), including nutrient management, cover cropping, residue management, and irrigation and land leveling.

Acadia SWCD currently operates in the Bayou Mallet watershed, which spans Acadia, Evangeline, and St. Landry Parishes, in coordination with the Evangeline and St. Landry SWCDs. The district is also pleased to announce the reenrollment of the Bayou Queue de Tortue watershed, extending efforts into Vermilion Parish in partnership with the Vermilion SWCD.

The district has a proven track record of success in Bayou Queue de Tortue, where it previously enrolled over 2,000 acres in conservation contracts. Producers in the area implemented a wide range of BMPs, including irrigation land leveling, grade stabilization structures, dry seeding of rice, and integrated residue, nutrient, and pest management — all aimed at improving soil health and reducing runoff into local waterways.

A key resource supporting this work is the district's NACD/319 conservation technician, funded through the National Association of Conservation Districts (NACD) Technical Assistance Grant Program and the 319 NPS Program. Since 2018, NACD and the National Resources Conservation Service (NRCS) have partnered to help conservation districts expand their capacity by funding technical staff. These positions enhance service to producers, reduce workload pressure, and strengthen the locally led conservation delivery system.

By supporting outreach, education, and conservation planning, the program empowers landowners to make informed decisions that protect natural resources and promote long-term sustainability.

Each year, Acadia SWCD hosts an Annual Appreciation Supper, bringing together producers, partners, and community members to celebrate conservation successes. At the most recent event, Shane Daigle of SD Farms, LLC was honored as Farmer of the Year for his dedication to sustainable agriculture and environmental stewardship.

Shane also played a key role in the district's "Family Day at the Farm," which he generously hosted on his property. The event welcomed over 150 attendees and offered families a hands-on, educational look at conservation in agriculture. Shane led a guided tour of his farm, sharing insights into the practices he uses to improve soil health and water quality.

Participants of all ages explored a variety of conservation practices through interactive exhibits and educational booths hosted by partner organizations. A highlight of the day was the NRCS rainfall simulator, which demonstrated the importance of soil cover and the role of cover crops in reducing erosion and improving water retention.

Fungal disease threatens pine plantations in Arkansas – UAM’s Arkansas Forest Health Research Center fights back

Brown spot needle blight is a fungal disease that infects pine needles, leading to premature needle loss, stunted growth and long-term stress that increases a tree’s vulnerability to other pests and pathogens.

Forest health experts from the University of Arkansas at Monticello have identified brown spot needle blight on loblolly pine in 11 additional counties in Arkansas this year, bringing the total number of confirmed counties to 25.

Brown spot needle blight is a fungal disease that infects pine needles, leading to premature needle loss, stunted growth and long-term stress that increases a tree’s vulnerability to other pests and pathogens. While it has historically been associated with longleaf pine, Pinus palustris, in the grass stage, over the past several years it has mainly affected loblolly pine, Pinus taeda, of all ages and size classes.

“The infection is characterized by needles forming brown spots with a yellow halo, crown discoloration, and progressive needle damage and loss that can, after multiple years can lead to tree death, but this is a slow process,” said Laura Sims, director of the Arkansas Forest Health Research Center and associate

SU Ag Center to host its 20th Annual Business Development & Procurement Conference

The Southern University Ag Center will host its 20th Annual Business Development and Procurement Conference October 27-29, 2025. The conference, themed “A Legacy of Leadership: 20 Years of Innovation and Impact,” will be held on the Southern University campus in Baton Rouge, La.

Whether your business is just a dream waiting to be launched or an established enterprise ready to scale, the 20th Annual Business Development and Procurement Conference is the place to be. This milestone year is all about creating space for entrepreneurs and business leaders to not only learn, but to truly grow.

“I am excited about our expanded conference format that now includes interactive sessions designed to provide hands-on, personalized assistance,” expressed Dr. Krystle Allen, Conference Director and Community and Economic Development Specialist at the SU Ag Center. “These sessions will help small business owners strengthen capacity, identify new opportunities, and walk away with actionable strategies to move their business forward.”

Attendees will receive information on:

- Match-making: Attendees will have an opportunity to meet with representatives from various local, state, federal, and private agencies to sell their products and services.
- Certifications: Representatives from the small business community will be available to assist business owners in completing their applications for the various certifications, e.g., 8A, DBE, EBR Fair Share, Hudson, Etc.
- Networking: Attendees will have an opportunity to network with other business owners, industry leaders, community leaders, and government agencies.
- Training: Valuable skills and insights will be provided to assist individuals in growing their businesses.

“Beyond the sessions, small business owners will gain access to decision-makers, connect with potential partners, and join a community of innovators who are shaping the future of business. If you’re serious about taking your idea or company to the next level, this is the conference you simply can’t afford to miss,” added Dr. Allen.

The conference is free and open to all small business owners and contractors, but registration is required. Visit <https://bit.ly/45KGvIV> to register.

For additional information, contact Dr. Krystle Allen, at krystle_allen@suagcenter.com.

CERTIFIED DELICIOUS RECIPES

CRAWFISH AND MUSHROOM LINGUINE

Submitted by Best Stop Cajun Food
www.beststopwholesale.com

INGREDIENTS

Ingredients:
½ tsp kosher salt, plus more to taste
¼ cup olive oil, plus more for drizzling
1½ lb mixed fresh mushrooms (shiitake, oyster, and/or cremini), trimmed and sliced
2 Tbsp unsalted butter
3 cloves garlic, finely minced
1 tsp fresh rosemary leaves, chopped
¼ tsp crushed red pepper flakes
1 cup low-sodium vegetable broth
12 oz linguine
1 lb peeled crawfish tails
¼ cup fresh flat-leaf parsley, chopped
½ cup freshly grated parmesan cheese, plus more for serving

INSTRUCTIONS

1. Start by bringing a large pot of salted water to a boil for the linguine.
2. In a large skillet, heat ¼ cup olive oil medium-high heat. Begin with half of your mushrooms, cooking until they start to wilt. Then, add in the rest and cook until all the liquid has evaporated, and the mushrooms have caramelized – this should take around 8 to 10 minutes.
3. Drop the heat to medium and melt in 2 Tbsp of unsalted butter. Stir in the minced garlic, chopped rosemary, a ½ tsp of kosher salt, and the crushed red pepper flakes and crawfish tails. Let these cook until they're fragrant, which will be about 30 seconds.
4. Pour in a cup of low-sodium vegetable broth, letting it reduce by half, which will take about 3 minutes. Then, turn the heat down to the lowest setting and cover to keep the sauce warm.
5. Meanwhile, your pot of water should be boiling. Add linguine and cook until al dente, which means 1 to 2 minutes less than what the package suggests.
6. Using tongs, transfer the pasta to the sauce, adding a bit of the pasta water if needed to keep things moist. Drizzle with additional olive oil and toss everything with ¼ cup of chopped parsley.
7. Take the skillet off the heat, sprinkle with ½ cup of freshly grated parmesan cheese, and give it one last toss before serving.

SWEET CABERNET CHICKEN

Submitted by Steen's Syrup
www.steenssyrup.com

12 chicken thighs, bone-in skin on
3 tsp Creole seasoning
3 Tbsp vegetable oil
1 ½ cup diced seasoning vegetable blend
1 cup Cabernet Sauvignon wine
2 cups chicken stock
¾ cup Steen's Cane Syrup
2 tsp chopped fresh rosemary
2 tsp chopped fresh basil
2 tsp chopped fresh thyme
2 Tbsp chopped garlic
1 Tbsp corn starch dissolved in 1 oz water

INSTRUCTIONS

1. Season chicken liberally with Creole seasoning and chill for 4 hour or overnight.
2. Preheat oven to 375° F.
3. Heat large skillet over medium high heat until the skillet is very hot.
4. Put oil in the pan, then place chicken, skin side down. Brown for 5 minutes.
5. Flip chicken over and brown the other side for another 5 minutes. Repeat until all thighs are browned. Return the skillet to high heat.
6. Place thighs in a roasting pan large enough to fit everything in one layer. Return the skillet to high heat. Add seasoning vegetables and sauté' until softened. Add wine to the skillet, allowing the mixture to boil until the liquid is reduced by a third, about 5-8 minutes. Add chicken stock, syrup, herbs and garlic.
7. Return mixture to a boil and cook for 5 minutes. Remove from heat and pour liquid mixture over the chicken.
8. Cover and bake for 45 minutes. Remove from the oven and strain the liquid. Return the liquid to the skillet or a small saucepan. Make a gravy by adding the cornstarch and water mixture to the liquid, returning the liquid to a simmer, cooking until thickened.

CREOLE GUMBO

Submitted by Bailey's Cajun Creole Mix Inc.

2 lbs small or medium shrimp (peeled)
1 lb Smoked Sausage (cut into 1/4 " slices)
2 lb boneless chicken (cut up)
2 Tbsp Bailey's Cajun Creole Spice
½ to 1 lb Crab meat
2 dozen Raw Oysters (optional)
¼ cup of cooking oil
2 cans of cut Okra (rinsed and drained)
1 pack of Bailey's Cajun Creole Roux Mix

INSTRUCTIONS

1. In an 8-quart pot sauté shrimp, sausage, chicken, and dried seasonings in oil for about 15 minutes.
2. Add 3 ½ qts. of hot water and bring to a boil. Add ½ to 1 pack of spices.
3. Mix entire pack of Roux with water from pot until roux is creamy and smooth.
4. After Roux is mixed, add to pot. Add Crab Meat and Okra and cook uncovered over medium heat for 45 minutes.
5. Oysters should be added the last 15 minutes of cooking if desired. Skim excess oil prior to serving.

Children enjoyed a dedicated Kids' Corner, where they could dig for soil-dwelling critters, plant flowers, pet farm animals, and engage in other fun, nature-themed activities. The event offered something for everyone and helped connect the community to the vital role conservation plays in the future of agriculture.

This event was made possible through support from the National Wildlife Federation's Conservation Champions Grant, which also enabled the district to create and distribute custom farm signs featuring humorous and educational messages about cover crops—sparking both smiles and conservation conversations across the parish.

In addition to community outreach events, the district also hosted a Conservation Field Day made possible through funding from the National Wildlife Federation's Conservation Champions Grant. This event focused on the importance of cover crops and soil health, particularly within rice and crawfish rotation systems—a common and vital practice in the region.

Producers, partners, and local stakeholders gathered to learn about the benefits of integrating cover crops into these rotations, including improved soil structure, enhanced nutrient cycling, reduced erosion, and better water retention. Presentations and field demonstrations highlighted how these practices not only support environmental goals but also contribute to long-term farm productivity and resilience.

The field day provided a valuable opportunity for producers to engage directly with conservation professionals, ask questions, and see firsthand how conservation practices can be tailored to fit the unique needs of rice and crawfish operations. The event reinforced the district's commitment to supporting producers with practical, science-based solutions that protect natural resources while sustaining agricultural livelihoods.

In addition, the Acadia SWCD, in partnership with the Acadia 4-H Extension Office, co-hosted a day-long 4-H camp focused on natural resource conservation. This collaborative event brought together local conservation partners to engage youth in meaningful, hands-on learning experiences centered on the protection and stewardship of our natural resources.

Through interactive stations and fun, educational activities, 4-H students explored topics such as soil health, water quality, wildlife habitat, and sustainable agriculture. The camp not only fostered environmental awareness but also encouraged students to become active participants in conservation efforts within their communities.

The Acadia SWCD Board of Supervisors plays a vital role in steering conservation initiatives across the parish. The current board members—Glen Simon, Earl Garber, Robert "Dale" Thibodaux, George Guillory, and Gerard Frey—along with Associate Member Jody Sittig, bring invaluable experience and dedication to the district. Their leadership and commitment continue to drive meaningful conservation successes in Acadia Parish.

With strong partnerships, dedicated staff, and a deep commitment to improving the land for future generations, Acadia SWCD continues to cultivate a culture of conservation across Acadia Parish—one watershed, one farm, and one family at a time.

USDA to Provide $1 Billion to Flood and Wildfire-Impacted Livestock Producers

U.S. Secretary of Agriculture Brooke L. Rollins recently announced eligible livestock producers will receive disaster recovery assistance through the Emergency Livestock Relief Program for 2023 and 2024 Flood and Wildfire (ELRP 2023 and 2024 FW) to help offset increased supplemental feed costs due to a qualifying flood or qualifying wildfire in calendar years 2023 and 2024. The program is expected to provide approximately $1 billion in recovery benefits. Sign-up begins on Monday, September 15. Livestock producers have until October 31, 2025, to apply for assistance.

“We are providing continued support for livestock producers whose livelihoods and way of life have been disrupted by catastrophic floods, wildfires, and poor forage conditions in 2023 and 2024. Under President Trump’s leadership, USDA is standing shoulder to shoulder with America’s farmers and ranchers, delivering the resources they need to stay in business, feed their families, and keep our food supply strong,” said Secretary Brooke Rollins. “This announcement builds on the Supplemental Disaster Relief Program (SDRP) and the historic levels of assistance we have rolled out over the last few months, once again proving that this administration is working as quickly as possible to get help out the door and into the hands of livestock and dairy producers. USDA will continue to put farmers first and ensure they have the relief they need to weather storms and build for the future.”

Qualifying Disaster Events

To streamline program delivery, FSA has determined eligible counties with qualifying floods and qualifying wildfires in 2023 and 2024. For losses in these counties, livestock producers are not required to submit supporting documentation for floods or wildfires. A list of approved counties is available at fsa.usda.gov/elrp.

For losses in counties not listed as eligible, livestock producers can apply for ELRP 2023 and 2024 FW but must provide supporting documentation to demonstrate that a qualifying flood or qualifying wildfire occurred in the county where the livestock were physically located or would have been physically located if not for the disaster event. FSA county committees will determine if the disaster event meets program requirements.

Livestock and Producer Eligibility

For ELRP 2023 and 2024 FW, FSA is using covered livestock criteria similar to the Livestock Forage Disaster Program (LFP) which includes weaned beef cattle, dairy cattle, beefalo, buffalo, bison, alpacas, deer, elk, emus, equine, goats, llamas, ostriches, reindeer, and sheep.

Wildfire assistance is available on non-federally managed land to participants who did not receive assistance through LFP or the ELRP 2023 and 2024 for drought and wildfire program delivered to producers in July of this year.

Payment Calculation

Eligible producers can receive up to 60% of one month of calculated feed costs for a qualifying wildfire or three months for a qualifying flood using the same monthly feed cost calculation that is used for LFP.

ELRP 2023 and 2024 for drought and wildfire and ELRP 2023 and 2024 FW have a combined payment limit of $125,000 for each program year. Producers who already received the maximum payment amount from ELRP 2023 and 2024 for drought and wildfire will not be eligible to receive an additional payment under ELRP 2023 and 2024 FW. Eligible producers may submit form FSA-510, Request for an Exception to the $125,000 Payment Limitation for Certain Programs, to be considered for an increased payment limit of $250,000.

Supplemental Disaster Assistance Timeline

USDA is fully committed to expediting remaining disaster assistance provided by the American Relief Act, 2025. On May 7, we launched our 2023/2024 Supplemental Disaster Assistance public landing page where the status of USDA disaster assistance and block grant rollout timeline can be tracked. The page is updated regularly and accessible through fsa.usda.gov. Contact your local FSA county office for more information.

More Information

To learn more about FSA programs, producers can contact their local USDA Service Center. Producers can also prepare maps for acreage reporting as well as manage farm loans and view other farm records data and customer information by logging into their farmers.gov account. If you don’t have an account, sign up today.

FSA helps America’s farmers, ranchers and forest landowners invest in, improve, protect and expand their agricultural operations through the delivery of agricultural programs for all Americans. FSA implements agricultural policy, administers credit and loan programs, and manages conservation, commodity, disaster recovery and marketing programs through a national network of state and county offices and locally elected county committees. For more information, visit fsa.usda.gov.

Conservation at Work Video Series

A video series from NRCS and farmers.gov, Conservation at Work, presents short and easy to understand videos about popular conservation practices. These videos feature producers explaining how an individual practice helps their land and why they are using it.

The videos shine the spotlight on farmers, ranchers, and forestland owners from across the U.S. who explain why they’ve implemented the conservation practices and how they work on their land. They also provide insight into how each practice is helping them protect and improve resources and save time and money.

We’ve got videos showcasing high tunnels, no-till, cover crops, prescribed grazing, and many more. Check out the Conservation at Work video series at farmers.gov/conservation/conservation-at-work.

Maps for 2026 Crawfish Reporting are Available

Maps are now available for crawfish reporting purposes. If you wish to receive your maps by e-mail, please contact your local FSA Office.

September 30: Last day to certify 2026 Crawfish

In order to maintain program eligibility and benefits, you must file timely reports. Failure to file a report by the crawfish reporting deadline may cause ineligibility for future program benefits.

Brown Spot Needle Blight

professor of Forest Health at UAM. “Still, the disease is very concerning because it is now widespread across the loblolly pine producing area.”

Temperature, humidity and rainfall patterns have a large influence on the pathogen's growth, spread and infection process. Most of the infections occur during the rainy season, particularly from late spring through early summer.

Doubling down on spore production

“Fall spore production has been observed at some sites in southeast Arkansas and south-central Louisiana, Mississippi and Alabama, extending the dispersal period to twice a year in some locations, and speeding up the disease progression,” said Sims.

Along with her research technicians and forestry student workers, Sims has been monitoring and identifying outbreaks of brown spot needle blight across the Southern region with a focus on Arkansas.

Brown spot needle blight was first confirmed in Arkansas in 2020, with detections in Garland and Saline counties. The disease continued to spread in subsequent years, appearing in Grant, Hot Springs, Howard, Montgomery and Sevier counties in 2021; Pike County in 2022; Ashley, Drew and Lincoln counties in 2023; and Chicot, Perry and Union counties in 2024. The 11 newly identified counties in 2025 include: Bradley, Calhoun, Clark, Cleveland, Columbia, Dallas, Hempstead, Jefferson, Lafayette, Nevada and Ouachita.

Beyond Arkansas, the disease has also been confirmed on loblolly pine by other experts in Alabama, Florida, Georgia, Louisiana, Mississippi, North Carolina, South Carolina, Tennessee and Texas. The most significant damage, including some tree mortality, has been reported in Mississippi, Arkansas, Alabama and Louisiana.

Seeking a way to slow the spread

Through the Arkansas Center for Forest Health Research, Sims and her team are continuing to study the pathogen and explore practical, science-based measures that forest landowners can take to help slow the spread of the disease. Her research is being conducted in collaboration with the Arkansas Department of Agriculture, the Louisiana Department of Agriculture and Forestry and the U.S. Department of Agriculture's Forest Service.

Some of the research teams current studies focus on preventative measures that can be taken with established pine stands and seedlings. Sims stated that thinning of our forest is a vital key to forest health; however, the current market is not favorable for these practices.

“It would be very helpful if we had more places to take pulpwood — it could slow further spread of the disease. Through proper management, pine stands can become more vigorous,” said Sims. “Timely thinning and prescribed fire won’t stop all the current mortality, because the disease process is relatively slow and already well underway. But I think we can reduce future disease pressure. There is so much loblolly on the landscape right now that is ripe for harvest, but there are not enough markets, so the disease continues to spread and amplify.”

Forest landowners and managers who suspect brown spot needle blight on their property are encouraged to contact Sims at simsl@uamont.edu. For more information about brown spot needle blight, visit the Arkansas Forest Health Research Center’s webpage and FSA 5037, “Emerging Brown Spot Needle Blight Disease on Loblolly Pine”.

Diagnosing the disease

Diagnostic samples may also be submitted to the center. Samples should be placed first in a paper lunch sack, then sealed inside a one-gallon plastic bag. Each sample should be clearly labeled with the sample name, date of collection, collector’s name and the location of collection (GPS coordinates if available). Ship samples overnight in a sealed box to:

2025 Outstanding Louisiana Tree Farmer

W.H. Ward Properties Inc., a group of 48 shareholders in descendants of William H. Ward, have been selected the 2025 Outstanding Louisiana Tree Farmer by the Louisiana Forestry Association.

Family historian Bill Drawe characterized the 618 acres of LaSalle Parish like this: “To my grandfather, I guess, the property was just where he stored the raw inventory of his business. But to my Ward family, the land is a legacy that already has impacted the lives of four generations.”

The award celebrates the family’s dedication to good stewardship of their land, producing wood products and promoting wildlife habitat and recreation. Income from timber sales, oil production and hunting leases on the acreage continues to generate revenue for the corporation’s operation and its shareholders.

“This family is committed to the best use of this property as a tree farm and for other uses,” said Joe Shively, who serves as the family’s forester and is one of Smurfit-Westrock’s foresters dedicated to work for the tree farm program.

“They are open-minded and adaptive and have a shared vision for their property, he added.” The land is currently in the Centennial Forest Program and the family entity has been an LFA member for many years.

The seeds of this 100+-year-old legacy were planted in 1915, when William Henry Ward purchased several tracts of forested land in north-central Louisiana near Jena. The intent was to grow hardwood to feed the Algiers Saw and Planing Co., which he and his wife, Doris Lawton Ward, operated on the west bank of the Mississippi River. After later buying the sawmill from the Hotard family of Algiers, they renamed it the W.H. Ward Lumber Co.

“Ward’s plan was that he could cut timber, bind it together, and float it down the rivers that join one another on the way to the Mississippi River and on to Algiers (think New Orleans),” according to history notes from Ann Keene, a Ward descendant and business manager of the entity.

After William Ward’s death in 1934, the couple’s five children, Albert, Inez, Bill, Doris and Marian, inherited equal shares of his estate, including the LaSalle timberland, as well as nearby land in Rapides Parish. As decades went by and the family continued to grow, the heirs decided to simplify management of their land holdings by creating W.H. Ward Properties Inc. in 1999.

“For many years, they tried to manage the land on a natural, uneven-aged plan,” Shively explained. “A few years ago, they realized that timber markets were changing, and they needed to change their philosophy on the management of their land and natural resources to keep attuned to these changes.”

The family began to transition their timberland from a natural forest to an even-aged management model on the better pine-growing sites.

In 2014, Shively helped the family develop a comprehensive management plan that looks toward the future and recognizes a changing timber market. The multiple use concept, embracing wood, wildlife and recreation, drives the current strategy.

Recent activities have included selective thinning operations in 2020 and 2024, a total harvest of 95 acres in 2024 and reforestation work on 65 acres in 2020 with genetically improved loblolly pine seedlings. Products from these harvests — pulpwood, sawlogs and chipn- saw — typically go to area mills such as Hunt Forest Products in Pollock, LaSalle BioEnergy (Drax) in Urania and Standard Wood Yard in Olla.

Keene (daughter of W.H. Ward’s daughter Inez) is grateful for the advice and planning that Shively and his company have provided to help the family continue the legacy this land has represented over the past 110 years.

2025 USA Rice Sustainability Award Application Open

While insiders know U.S.-grown rice is one of the most sustainable and responsibly grown crops in the world, telling that story to those who are unaware is increasingly important. To help recognize the crop’s unique environmental qualities and the women and men who improve rice’s sustainability every day, USA Rice launched a Sustainability Award in 2018 to identify and promote prime examples.

The USA Rice Sustainability Award is open to individuals or entities with significant involvement in the U.S. rice industry and with a history of promoting and advancing sustainability through innovative practices and demonstrated leadership in the sustainability community.

“We are looking for men and women and companies who embody sustainability by their actions and who are willing to share their vision of the future and commitment to the environment with others and help others follow in their footsteps” said Mark Isbell, an Arkansas rice farmer and chair of the USA Rice Sustainability Committee. “While sustainability is at the forefront of most industries, it has been an integral part of the mindset of the U.S. rice industry for decades.”

Last year’s USA Rice Sustainability Award went to Riceland Food’s Ingrain Good Sustainability Program. This program has created, vetted, and implemented the Riceland Carbon Ready™ Program to develop new market opportunities for climate smart practices. Through this program, sustainability is no longer a buzzword; it’s a driver of innovation in agriculture, creating new opportunities and a bright future.

The award committee is now accepting nominations through October 10, and the award will be presented at the USA Rice Outlook Conference in New Orleans on December 8, 2025.

Mexican importers learn U.S. vessel export procedures to streamline agricultural trade

In August, the U.S. Grains & BioProducts Council (USGBC) welcomed a team of 11 Mexican grain importers to New Orleans to offer a better understanding of U.S. grain export procedures, regulatory frameworks, logistics and operations in maritime shipping.

"We wanted to show participants how the U.S. corn grading process works and the complexity of U.S. logistics that can contribute to broken corn," said Javier Chávez, USGBC senior marketing specialist.

"By helping participants gain a clearer understanding of U.S. export regulations and contractual terms, as well as grading standards and logistics realities, we can enable more effective procurement strategies and stronger compliance, facilitating smoother transactions and potentially larger U.S. grain purchases."

The program kicked off with meetings at the Federal Grain Inspection Service (FGIS) and the Animal and Plant Health Inspection Service (APHIS), departments that ensure the safety and quality of U.S. products as they move along the supply chain.

USGBC members including Cargill, Louis Dreyfus Commodities, Russell Marine Group and StoneX Financial welcomed the group to their facilities to examine grain elevator and laboratory processes and learn about global market dynamics and other factors that can affect maritime transportation and commodity pricing.

A highlight of the event was a roundtable meeting with Louisiana agricultural stakeholders, including Louisiana Agricultural Commissioner Dr. Mike Strain, about how agriculture positively impacts the state, national and international economies for producers, buyers and end-users.

Todd Erickson, senior advisor for the North American Export Grain Association (NAEGA), presented on the NAEGA 2 Contract and Addendum No.1 - the Free on Board (FOB) export contract and loading rate guaranty - to the Mexican grain importers.

"Doubts regarding grain grading and quality control at elevators were resolved through facility tours and meetings at critical junctures, increasing trust in U.S. feed grains and encouraging importers to prioritize U.S. suppliers, boosting sales," Chávez said.
