

MAN OF PARTS

The Post National

Created for global nomads
who appreciate craft

but prefer a modern experience.

A natural ability to compose both harmonious design and relationships has attracted some of the world's leading designers to collaborate with Man of Parts Founder, Stephan Weishaupt.

Born and raised in Munich, Stephan's family — a long line of craftsmen, entrepreneurs, architects, and artists — informed his curiosity, creativity, and an openness to exploring many points of view.

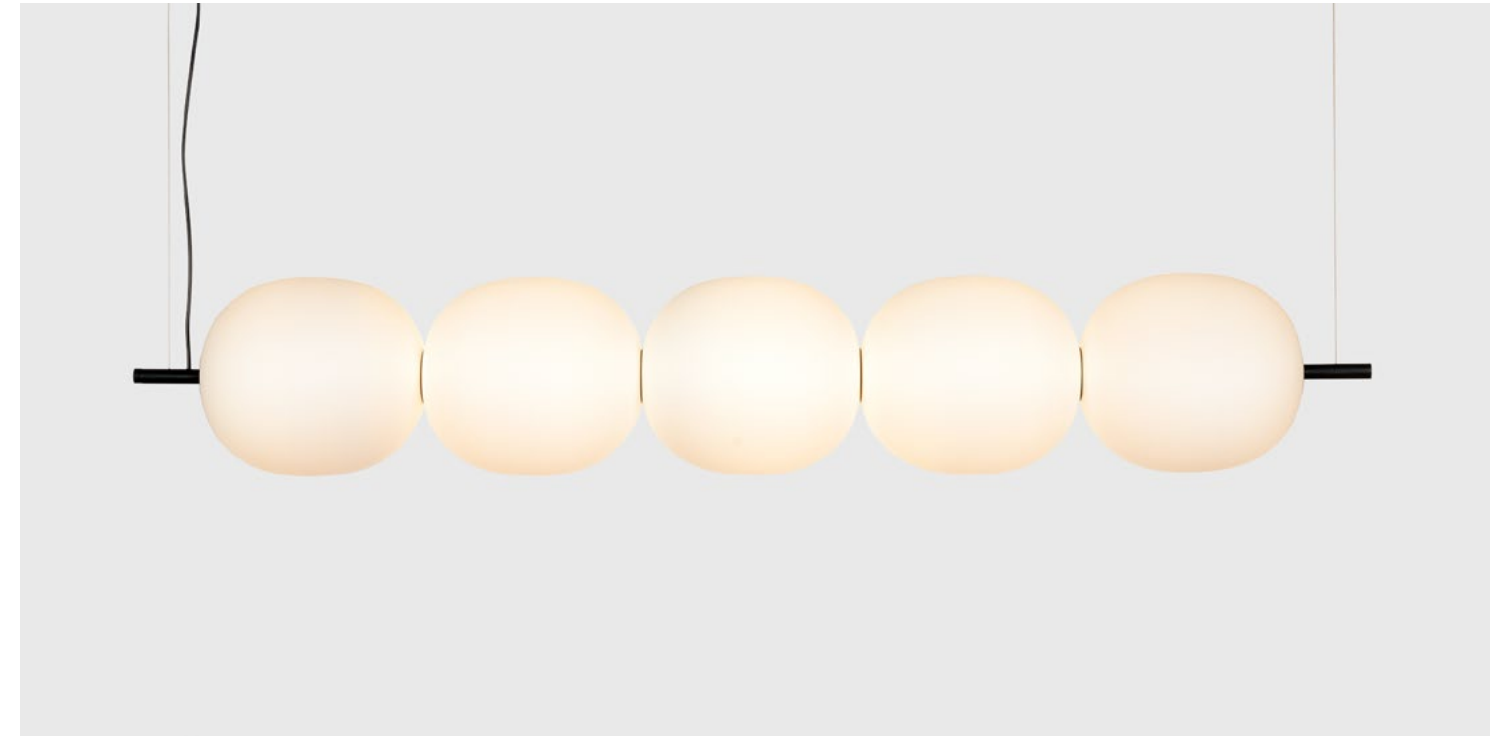

Embodying a Man of Parts himself, Stephan travels the world in search of unique perspectives that reflect the lives of globally minded people.

RUE DE BABYLONE

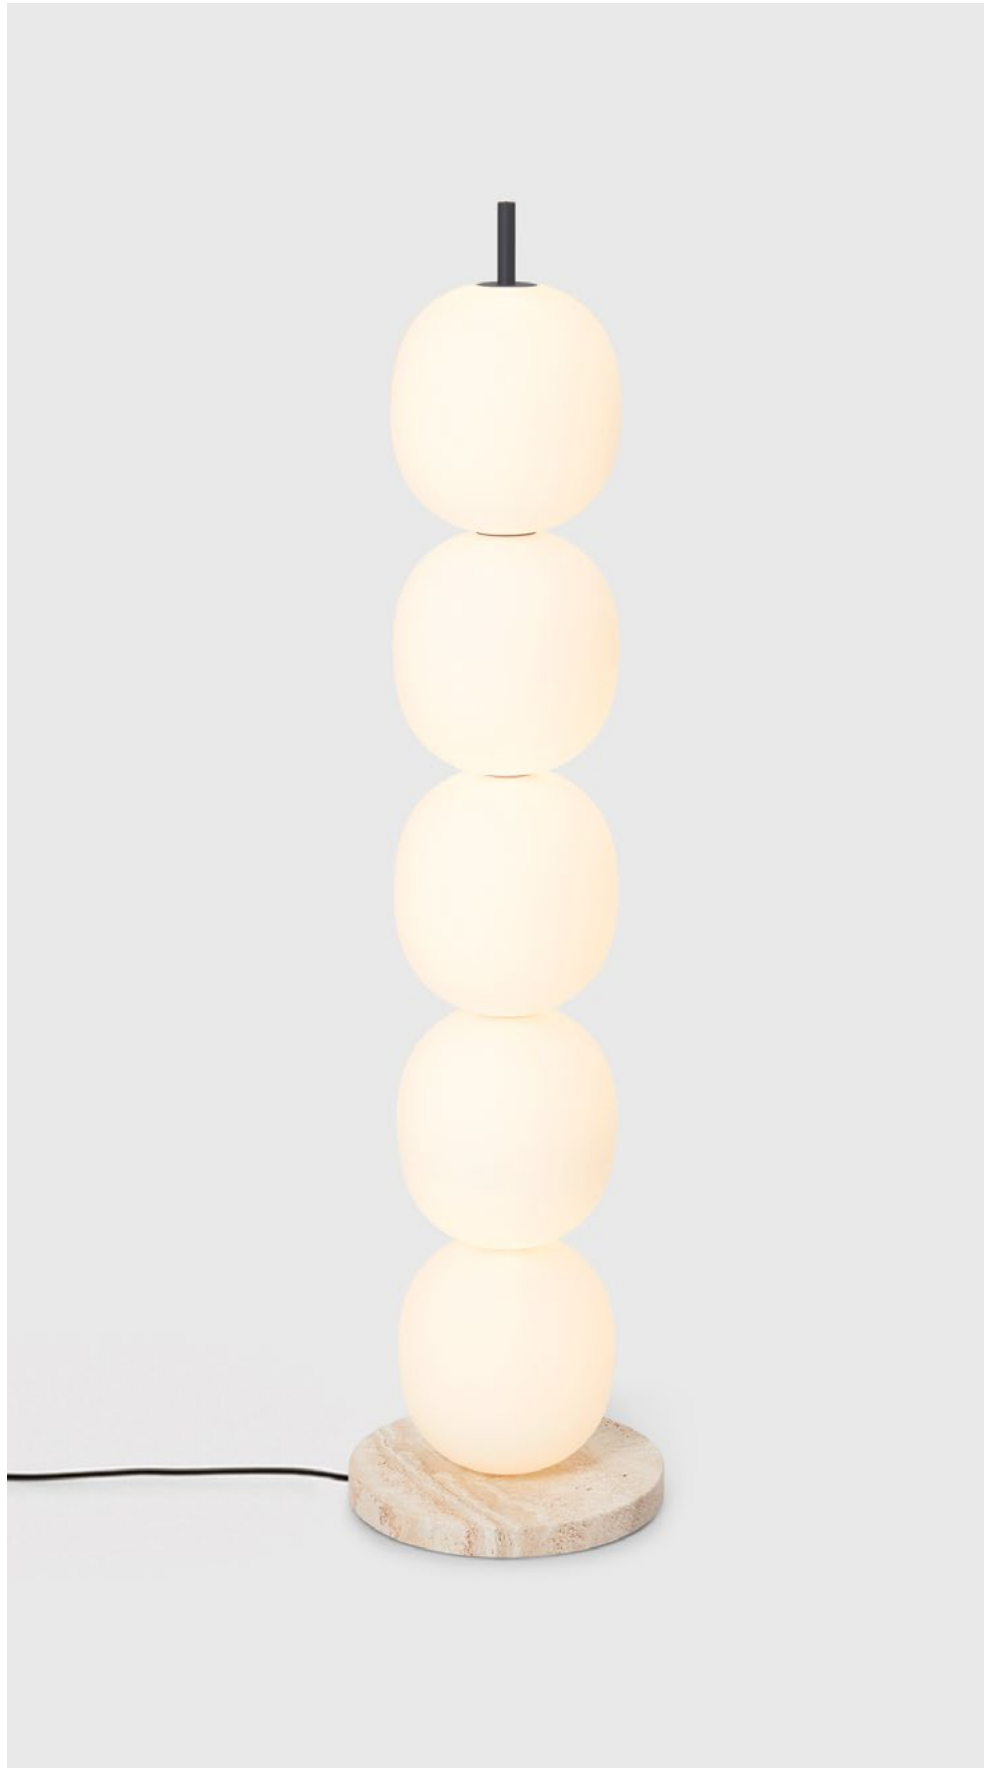

Referencing the angles and silhouettes of Paris, Christophe Delcourt's design subtly emulates the stature of the French capital.

MAINKAI

Mainkai or Main River Quay in English, is the riverside boulevard in Frankfurt, Germany. The spherical fishing floats and mooring buoys that bob along the river with an ethereal glow at night inspired the Mainkai's adaptation to the pendant design.

Composed of jutting sea-cliff footpaths and clapboard houses, the offshore of Newfoundland and Labrador's Fogo Island is set against a striking coastline. Celebrated by the remote coastal community and its visitors, Sandy Cove is a curved gathering place.

SANDY COVE

GRANVILLE

Towering above Granville Island – Vancouver's beloved artistic and cultural hub – the cantilevered Granville Street Bridge runs through the heart of the city into the buzzing downtown core's entertainment district.

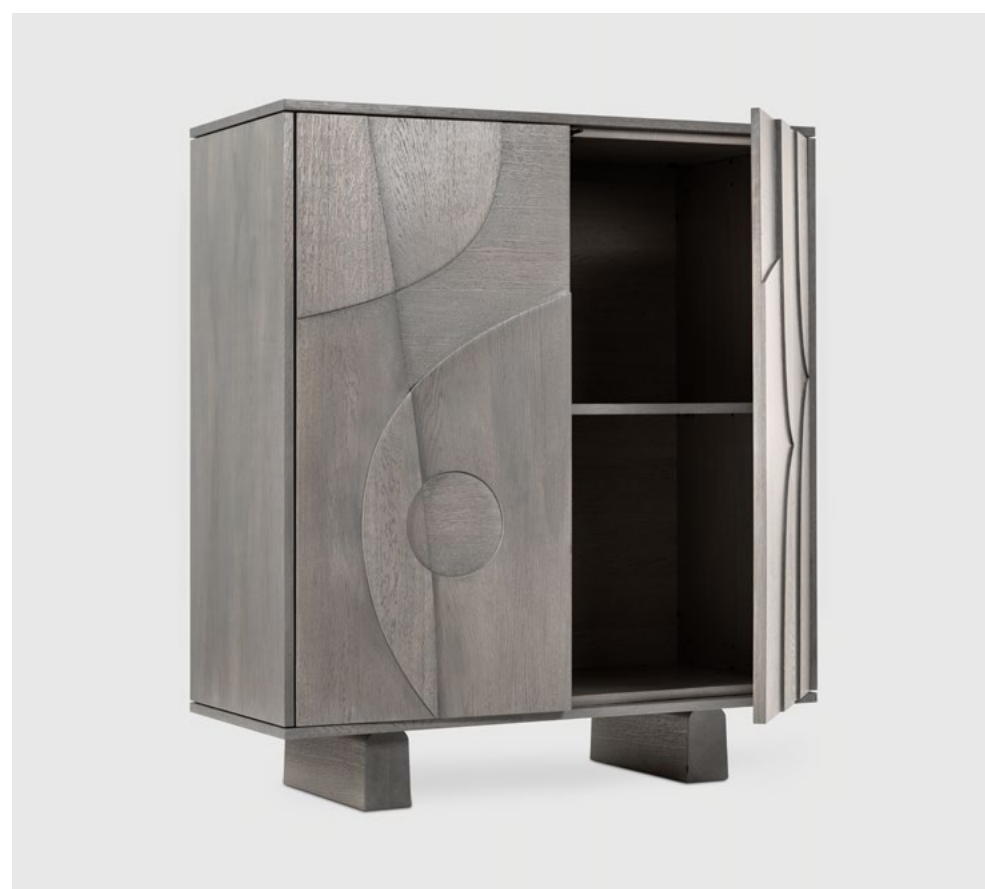

WYNWOOD

The visual language of the carved shapes, forms, and lines balance spontaneity and structure.

An arrangement of forms. Sebastian Herkner's Bowie Boulevard references architect Louis I. Khan's infamous structural cycloid vaults at the Kimbell Art Museum. Like the structure of the museum, the Bowie Vases blend modern and natural materials and timeless forms.

BOWIE BOULEVARD

SAVIGNYPLATZ

The Savignyplatz in Berlin is an idyllic park in a city square where friends gather to share company and the artistic energy of the city. Designer Sebastian Herkner's Savignyplatz dining table is also designed to be a venue for gathering, echoing the organic influence of the park.

TAKAYAMA

Takayama, an Edo-era Mountain town in Japan's mountainous Gifu Prefecture, is famed for Ukai fishing. The Fishermen employ a 1300-year-old technique using trained Cormorant birds. The birds swoop in and catch fish using the light of burning baskets hung on rods over the edge of boats to illuminate their prey. The arc of the Takayama console lamp echoes the form of the fisherman's friend.

SURFSIDE DRIVE

Situated between the town and coast, Surfside Drive curves to follow the natural contours of Nantucket's harbour and the primary building material of its coastal architecture.

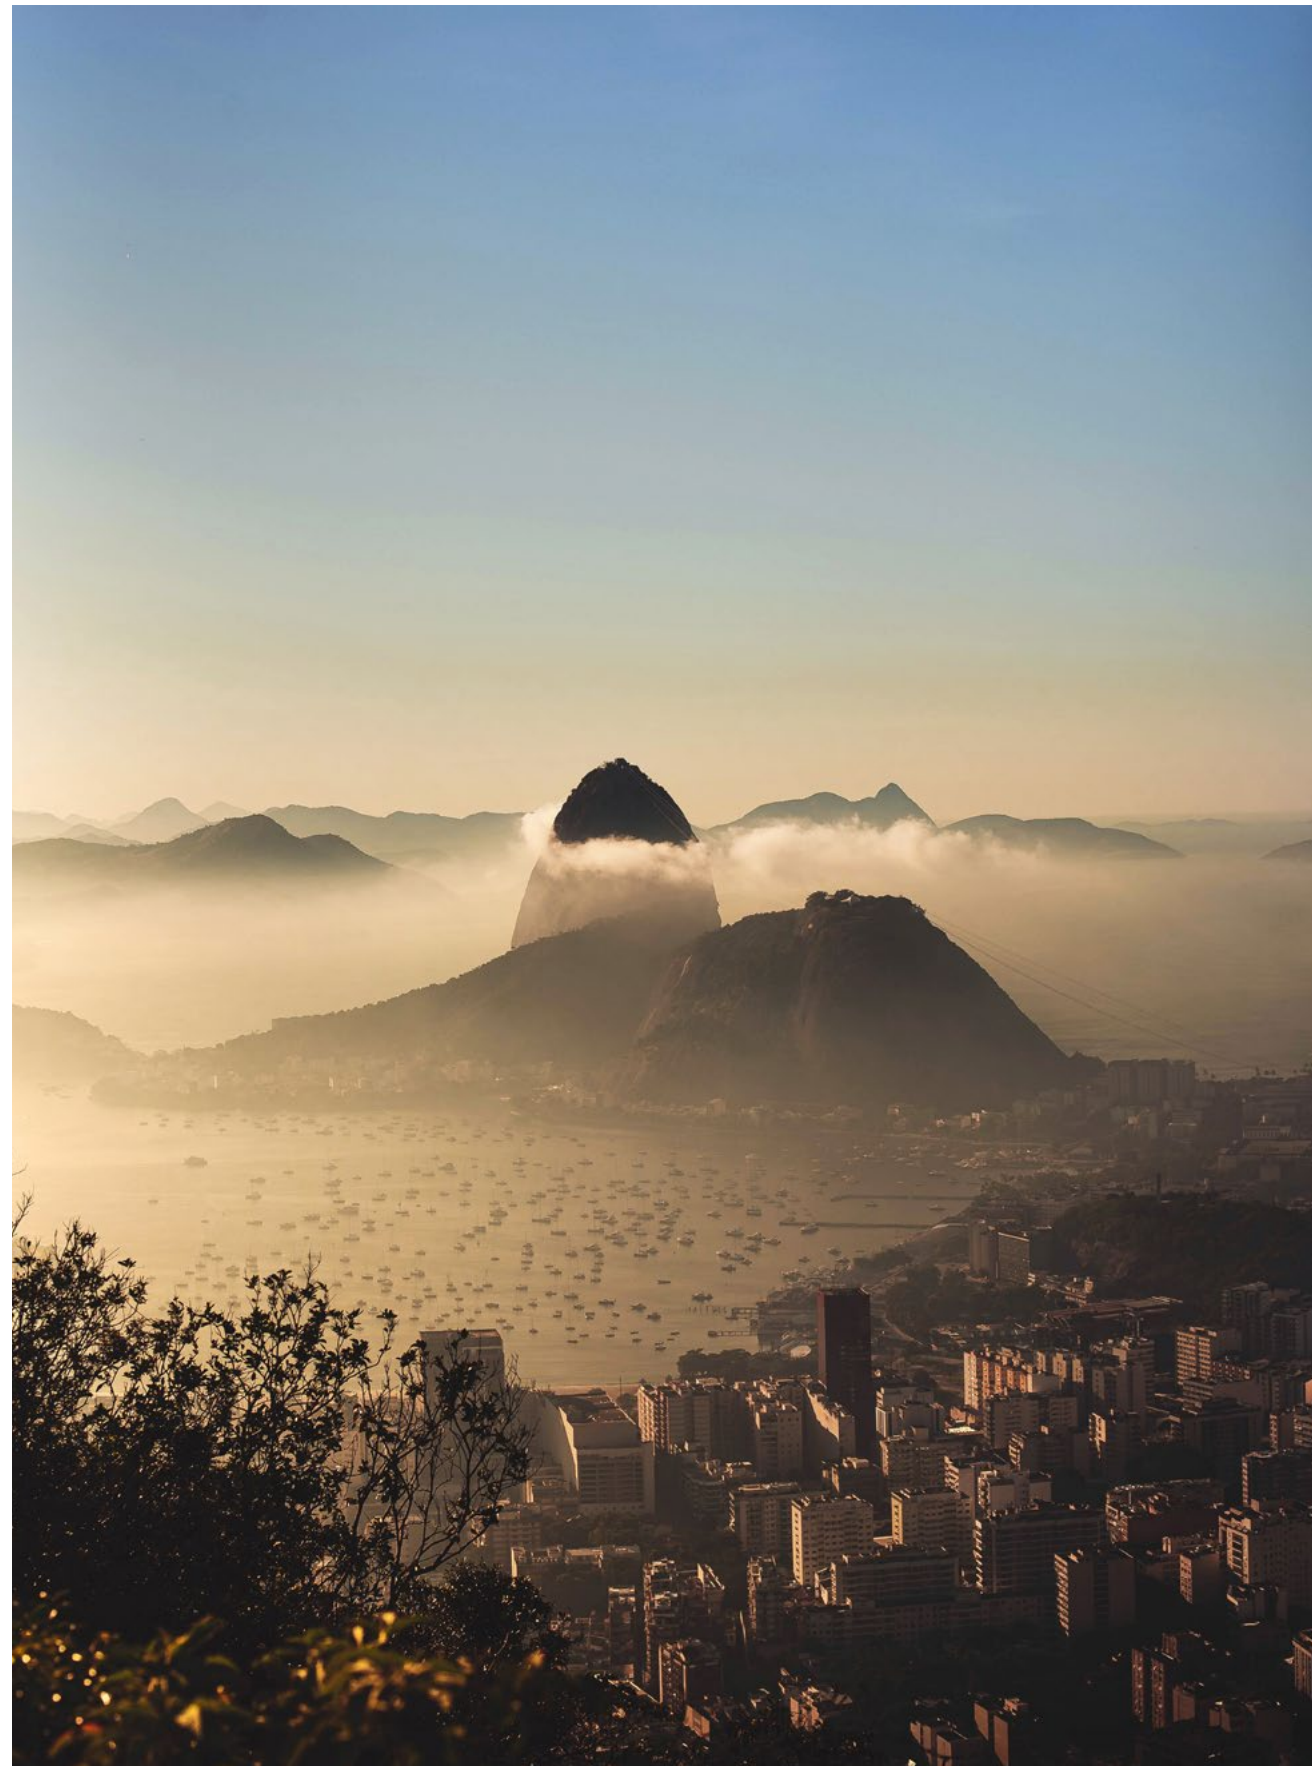

Rio de Janeiro trades in curves, from Oscar Niemeyer's architecture to the signature design of its sidewalks along Rua Ipanema. The Rua Ipanema lounge chair has a sultry form on a swivelling base that embraces the samba and relaxed elegance of Brazil.

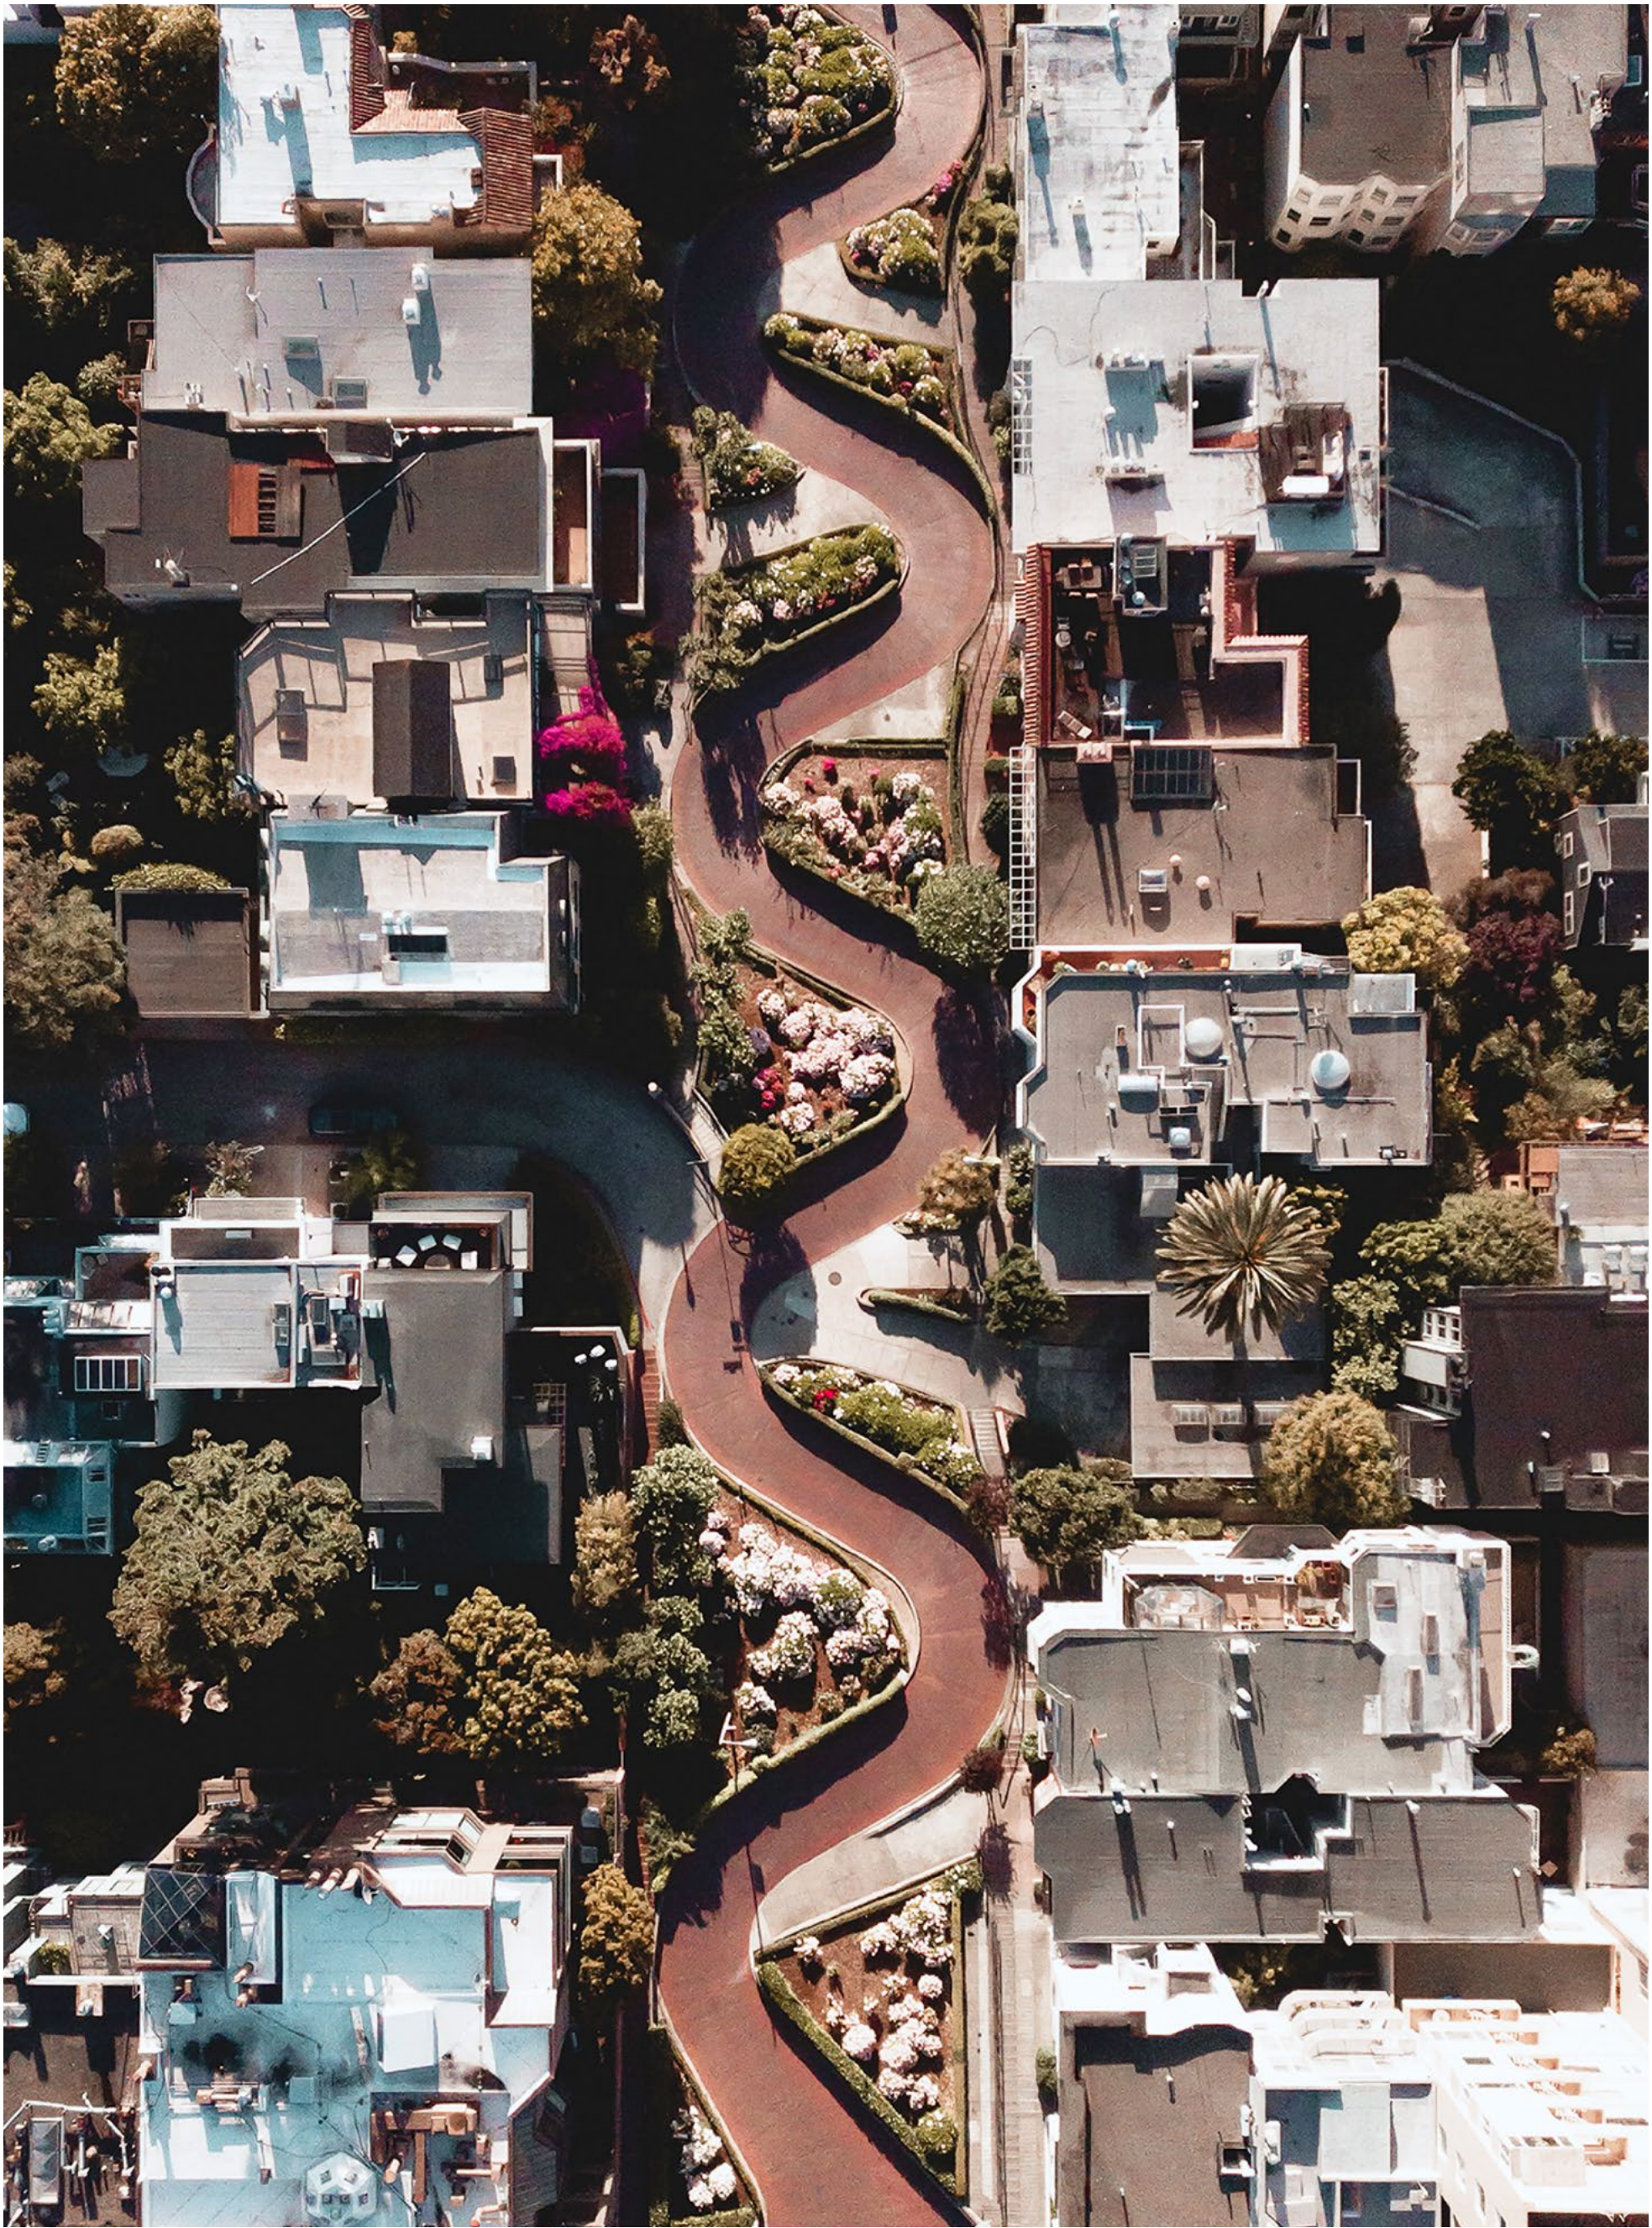

RUA IPANEMA

RUA LEBLON

Rua Leblon's landscape evolves from cityscape to rolling waves. It references two neighbouring Brazilian landmarks with their smaller expression of the Rua Ipanema lounge chair.

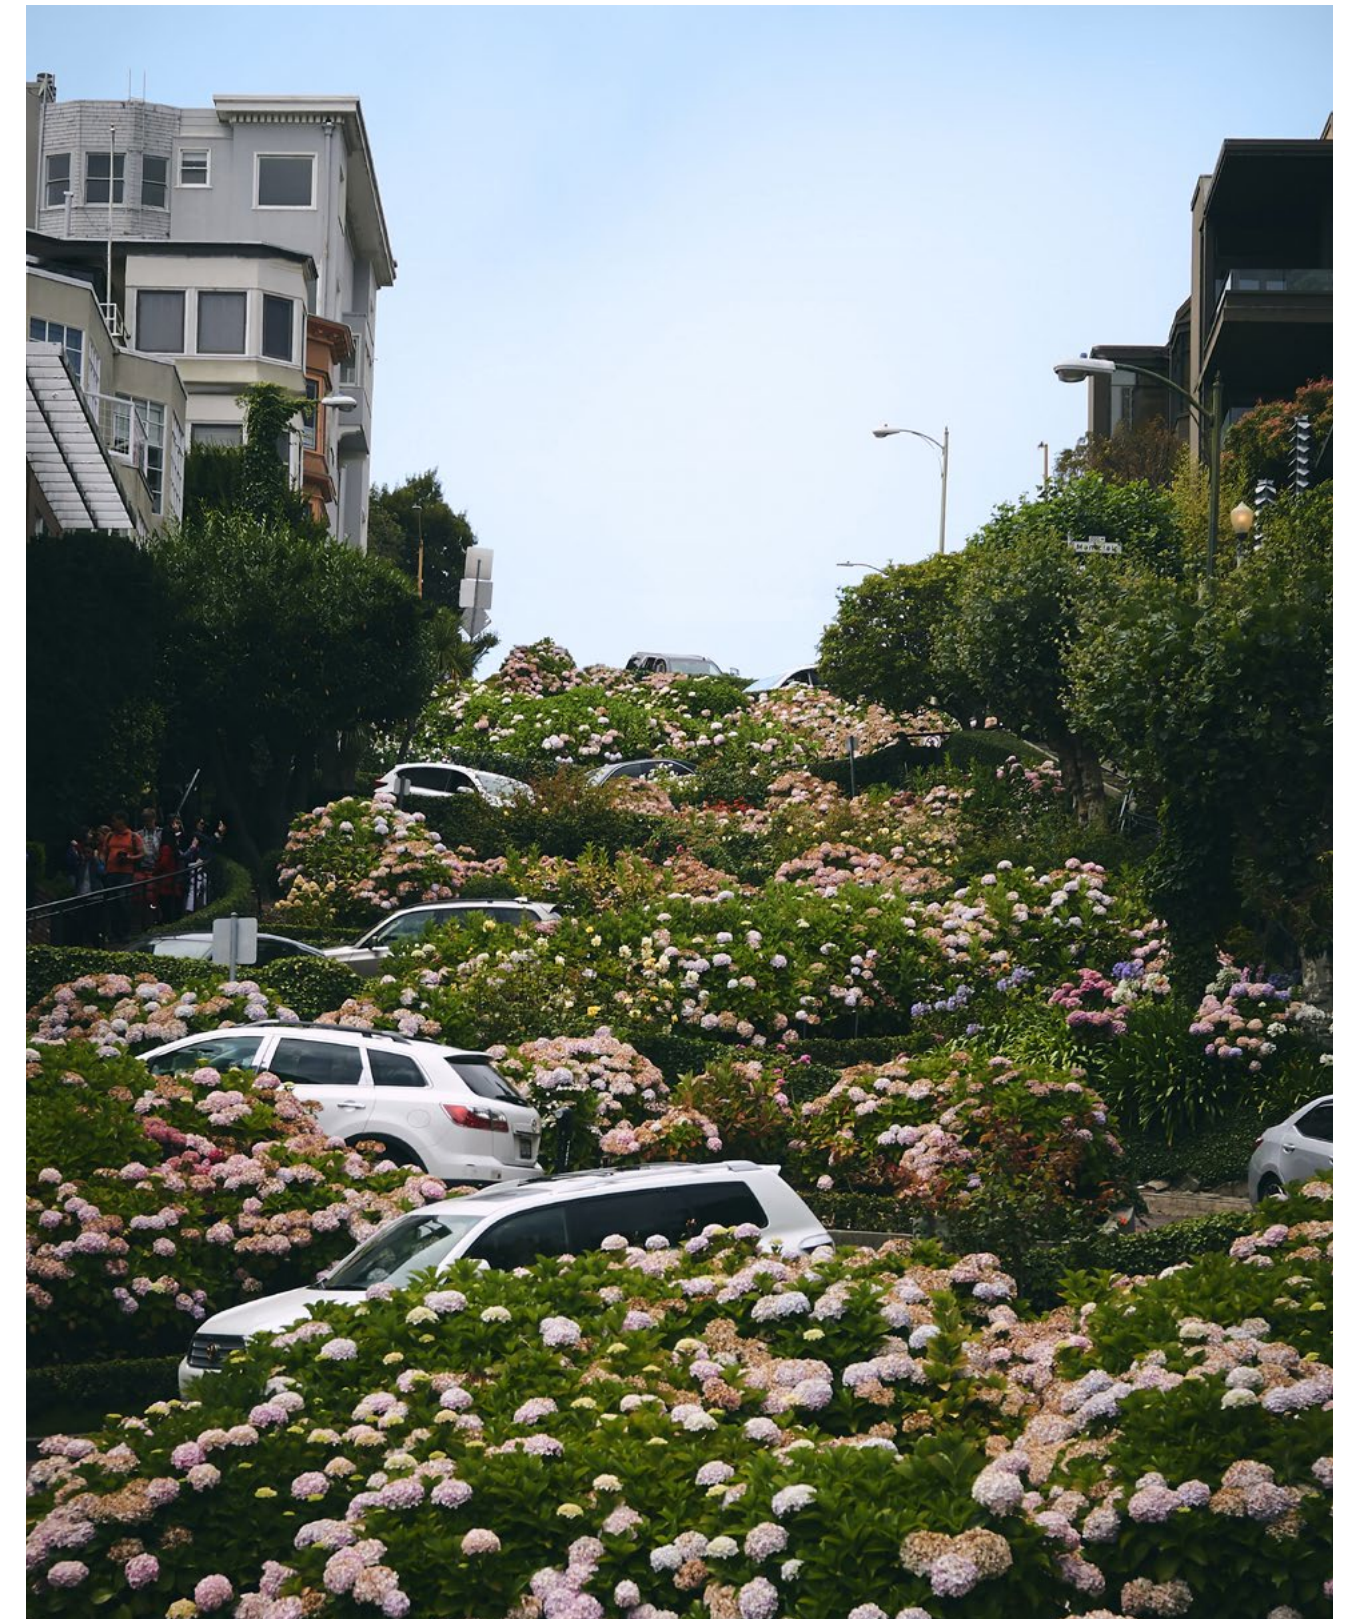

LOMBARD STREET

Lombard Street is famous for a steep, one-block section with eight hairpin turns in San Francisco's Russian Hill and was designed to help residents descend the hill gracefully.

EL RAVAL

The El Raval neighbourhood in Barcelona is a meeting point for multitudes. Close to the old port, the area was also informally known as Barri Xinès or “Chinatown” in the past, but today people from all parts call it home.

The central promenade of La Rambla in Barcelona encourages visitors and residents to slow down and watch the world go by. A canopy of trees weaves together to shade the benches that line the street.

LA RAMBLA

PARK PLACE

The strong simple lines of the Park Place stools and chair are reminiscent of the skyscrapers that tower above Manhattan.

RUA DAS PEDRAS

On the most charming street in Búzios, Rua das Pedras traces the ocean peninsula, adjoining cobbled city streets with azure waters and white sand. Printing Brazilian style, the design builds forms from the silhouettes of the shoreline, blending man-made and natural formations.

VIA DEL CORSO

BOND STREET

Bond Street, an iconic fashion and fine art destination reflects the dual personalities of London. On one side it has the elegance, polish, and formality, and on the other it has the swinging embrace of eccentricity and a modern sensibility.

The stone steps of Ladder Street help Hong Kong residents traverse the Sheung Wang District towards Victoria Peak. The street itself consists almost entirely of stairs, with streets branching off the stairs full of antique and curiosity shops.
